THE U. S. MARINE CORPS
BY T. HOLCOMB

Maj. Gen. Commandant, U. S. Marine Corps

From Thirty-six thousand men to Sixty-four thousand men in the past year is an unprecedented expansion in the size of the Marine Corps, which had its beginning one hundred sixty-six years ago as an authorized two infantry battalions, or about twelve hundred men. The present authorized expansion of the Corps can only be compared with the strength of the Corps which was obtained in the first few months after the World War in 1918.

In the course of such expansion, there have been, as in the other armed services, lags in the procurement of some equipment. These inevitable shortages in certain types of equipment smooth themselves out in time, and the fact that during the past year one large holding expeditionary force and many new small detachments have been furnished by the Corps attests that the operating efficiency of the Corps has not been affected. These formations,—the large one to Iceland, the smaller to the various recently acquired bases and to sea duty on ten additional Naval vessels—have been furnished fully equipped, and all of the missions have been accomplished without incident.

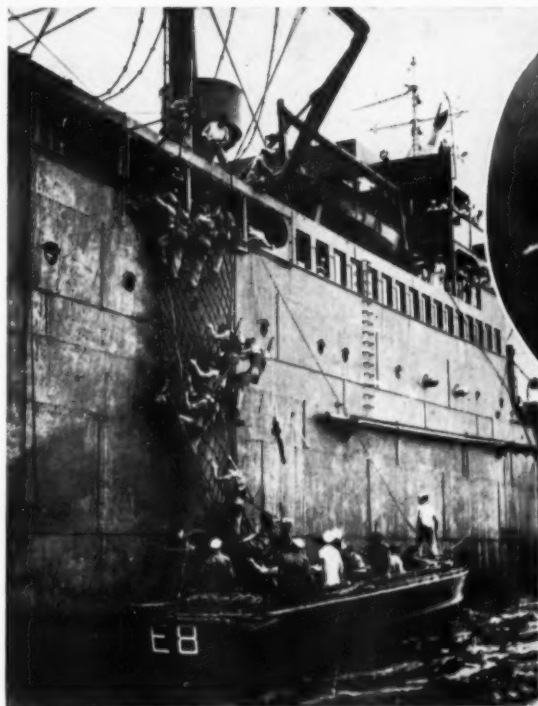

The existing detachments beyond the continental limits have been maintained, and a new Marine Base, already allotted to the First Marine Division will be completed at New River, N. C., in the Spring of 1942. The Division has been moved into a temporary camp at that place, pending completion of the permanent barracks.

Intensive amphibian training is being conducted at New River and San Diego, and development of the new Roebling Amphibian Tractor as a ship to shore supply vehicle for use in landing operations is being conducted with success. Marine Corps Schools, with the new training center in Quantico expanding rapidly, are meeting the problem of furnishing trained personnel to the varied special duty units which have become necessary in increasing proportions along with the general expansion.

Two new Marine Corps Flying Fields have been approved. Construction on Cunningham Field at Cherry Point, N. C. has been underway for two months, and is progressing satisfactorily. The other, construction on which is now starting at New River, N. C. will, it is anticipated be used for airplanes assigned to command missions, the training of parachute troops and of air infantry in gliders.

Parachute training is presently taking place at the Naval Air Station at Lakehurst, New Jersey, and as each class completes its course, the personnel are assigned to the First and Second Marine Divisions. Parachute jumping towers are also being built at San Diego, and much expansion is planned in this phase of combat duty.

On 10 November the 166th anniversary of the founding of the Marine Corps will be celebrated where ever United States Marines are stationed. Above is shown Maj. Gen. Thomas Holcomb, present major general commandant of the corps. At the left is illustrated an important phase of its activities—landing exercises as part of the First Joint Training Force.

Fast Action on Pay Bill Planned by Senate Group

Meeting in executive session this week, only a few days after receipt of the interdepartmental pay study, a Senate subcommittee mapped strategy to be followed in processing the pay act through the Senate and ordered letters to be sent to each department concerned to obtain its comments on the proposed bill.

Approval of one department to the proposed bill has already been obtained. Secretary of War Stimson, writing to the Chairman of the Senate Committee on Military Affairs, stated that he approved the pay report submitted by the interdepartmental committee. At the same time, the Secretary pointed out that the report had not been submitted to other department heads concerned, and that recommendations of the delegates of those departments therefore could not be considered binding upon their chiefs. Mr. Stimson pointed out, however, that the bill had not been submitted to the Budget Bureau, and that he therefore did not know whether or not the bill was in accord with the program of the President.

The pay bill, S. 2025, was introduced last Friday, 31 Oct., by Senator Edwin Johnson, of Colorado, chairman of the special subcommittee which has been named to handle the pay revision legislation.

Full text of the proposed pay bill and a comprehensive summary of the studies and recommendations of the interdepartmental board were published in last week's issue of the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL.

"Streamline" Nat. Gd. Divisions

Plans for the "streamlining" of National Guard divisions by reorganizing some of them along the lines of the triangular divisions of the regular army are well under way at the War Department. First of the National Guard units to be converted from the square division to triangular divisions probably will be the 40th Division.

The indication that the 40th Division would be triangularized was revealed in a routine press release this week announcing transfer of the 30th Infantry, the 159th Infantry and an undisclosed regiment of the 7th Division for permanent changes of stations.

It has been known that the Chief of Staff has issued a directive calling for the triangularization of several of the National Guard Divisions. Officers of the General Staff have been working on the problem of the shifting of regiments—necessary for the triangularization—for the past two weeks, and it is believed that designation of other National Guard divisions which will be triangularized will be announced shortly.

The War Department's announcement said that the 159th Infantry, a part of the 40th Infantry Division, a National Guard division, will move from Camp San Luis Obispo, Calif., to Ft. Ord, for permanent assignment with the 7th Infantry Division leaving the 40th Division "with three Infantry regiments, the same number which Regular Army Divisions have." As the General Staff has been working out the problem of the placement of the regiments which will necessarily have to be detached from the four-regiment National

Navy Announces First Temporary Promotions

The President late this week approved regulations for the administration of the temporary rank promotion act, passed by Congress on 14 July, and simultaneously the Navy Department released the first list of temporary appointments under the act.

In this first group of promotions, there were included 231 commissioned warrant and warrant officers who have been selected for appointment for temporary commissions, and 1,451 enlisted men who have been selected for promotion to the various warrant grades. These men, who immediately will assume the rank to which they have been recommended, were selected from among 12,525 men so recommended. The selection was done by a special board of seven officers which convened in the Navy Department.

Those selected for temporary commissions will be appointed immediately. However, personnel selected for temporary warrants will be appointed in such monthly quotas that the list will be exhausted in June 1942.

Also approved by the President was a recommendation of the Secretary of the Navy that qualified personnel of the following groups be temporarily promoted to the rank of lieutenant (jg):

Ensigns of the line of the Regular Navy senior to the Naval Academy class graduated in June, 1940. This embraces ensigns from Louis H. Roddis, jr., to Joseph M. Kellam, as listed in the Navy Register for 1 July, 1941.

Ensigns of the Supply Corps of the Regular Navy from Thomas Fuller to Harold V. Hutchings, similarly listed.

Ensigns of the Line and Supply Corps of the Naval Reserve who have seniority corresponding to that of the Regular Navy officers listed above.

Similar promotions for personnel of the Marine Corps will be announced shortly. Recommendations from commanding officers of the various Marine units for promotion of Marine Corps enlisted men are now being received at the Marine Corps Headquarters. A special board of Marine officers will convene shortly to make the recommendations for promotion.

At the same time, the Bureau of Navigation will in the very near future request recommendations from the Navy Reserve for similar temporary promotions and appointments.

The complete text of the regulations as approved by the President follows:

A. General Regulations.

1. All temporary appointments and promotions shall be based solely upon the needs of the naval service.

2. Estimates of the number of officers required to meet the needs of the naval service in each grade and rank of the line and staff corps in excess of the permanent authorized numbers shall be made from time to time by the Chief of the Bureau of Navigation and the Major General Commandant, U. S. Marine Corps, and submitted to the Secretary of the Navy and the President for approval.

3. Except as provided in the next succeeding paragraph, the principle of promotion by selection shall apply with respect to temporary appointments, and to promotions to grades above lieutenant (junior grade) in the Navy, and 1st lieutenant in the Marine Corps.

Nation's Editors Recognize Important Task of Navy; And Are Confident

EVEN while the American public was still grasping the significance of Navy Day editorials, published early last week, newspaper headlines announced last Friday that the USS Reuben James, destroyer, had been sunk while convoying somewhere west of Iceland. Thus, twice in one week the activities of the Navy Department were brought vividly before the public. It is, therefore, appropriate, that we turn this week to the Navy Day comments of newspaper editors, for it is from these comments that we may get the nation's reaction to the important tasks being performed by the Navy today.

The Washington, D. C. Star in a pointed editorial says, "In short, our Navy is in a state of war, whether the Nation at large realizes it or not. Upon the degree of effectiveness with which it carries out its present dangerous mission," the Star adds, "depends in large part the future of our country, and, perhaps, the fate of most of the democratic world."

The Philadelphia, Pa., Ledger says, "The United States Navy is the first line of American defense. The description is axiomatic, and like other axioms apt to be somewhat misleading. As this war has already amply demonstrated," the Ledger remarks, "defense does not mean merely being on the defensive. The Navy's task today is to keep the war—and the enemy—far from American shores."

"And while Americans debate about neutrality, the Navy is fighting." Thus the Christian Science Monitor wastes no words in presenting the naval picture. "If you don't call it fighting," continues the Monitor, "ask the men who stand by the guns night and day in the foggy North Atlantic, never knowing when a Nazi sub or raider will attack. Or ask the men who saw their shipmates killed on the Kearny. The Navy," concludes the Monitor, "repealed the Neutrality Act months ago."

The New York, N. Y., Sun says, "Public confidence in the readiness of the Navy to carry out all missions assigned to it has been so high since the first shadow of war fell over the United States that the new description of today as Navy and Total Defense Day comes as something of a waste of words."

Turning for the moment to comment of the small town newspaper as compared to that in the metropolitan Sun, it is noted that there is, indeed, little difference in opinion. The Alliquippa, Pa., Gazette, says, "How well America does this navy building job, how efficiently our Navy functions—on these things depend the future of our American way of life."

Coast Guard is Shifted to Navy Dept. Control

In a move which many had anticipated but whose suddenness of execution came as somewhat of a surprise, President Roosevelt this week placed the Coast Guard under the orders of the Secretary of Navy as an emergency measure.

Thus, just as was the case in World War I, the Coast Guard has been taken from the jurisdiction of the Secretary of Treasury and placed under the Navy. In response to queries, Coast Guard officials explained this week that activities will continue as before. They pointed out that few changes are expected—at least until the Navy has had ample opportunity to study facilities and personnel of the Coast Guard. Then, of course, changes will be made to conserve sea strength and to best utilize the strength of the two forces.

As a result of the transfer which was affected by an executive order, the Coast Guard will occupy a position analogous to that of the Marine Corps. In an imagined table of organization, Rear Adm. Russel R. Waesche, Coast Guard Commandant, would be placed on a parallel bracket with Maj. Gen. Thomas Holcomb, Marine Corps Commandant. Both men head organizations which are responsible to Admiral Harold R. Stark, Chief of Naval Operations, who in turn is responsible to the Secretary of Navy.

The text of the executive order which effected the transfer follows:

"By virtue of the authority vested in me by section 1 of the act of Congress approved 28 Jan. 1915, 38 Stat. 800 (U. S. C., title 14, sec. 1), as amended by sections 5 and 6 of the act of 11 July 1941, Public Law 166, 77th Congress, 1st Session, it is hereby directed that the Coast Guard shall from this date, until further orders, operate as a part of the Navy, subject to the orders of the Secretary of the Navy.

"All Coast Guard personnel operating as a part of the Navy, subject to the orders of the Secretary of the Navy, pursuant to this order, shall, while so serving, be subject to the laws enacted for the government of the Navy: Provided, That in the initiation, prosecution, and completion of disciplinary action, including remission or mitigation of punishments for any offense committed by any officer or enlisted man of the Coast Guard, the jurisdiction shall depend upon and be in accordance with the laws and regulations of the Department having jurisdiction of the person of such offender at the various stages of such action: Provided further, That any punishment imposed and executed in accordance with the provisions of this paragraph shall not exceed that to which the offender was liable at the time of the commission of the offense."

"FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT."

Navy Gains Strength

The Navy Department meanwhile announced this week that transfer of the Coast Guard to Naval jurisdiction will materially strengthen the operating forces of the Navy, particularly in the field of patrol craft. Approximately 230 vessels of various patrol and tender classes fitted for various fields of operation with the fleet are involved in the transfer along with a large number of small craft designed for inshore and port patrol.

Coast Guard personnel transferred to naval jurisdiction involves a total of 1707 commissioned, chief warrant, and warrant officers; 335 cadets, an aggregate of 21,837 enlisted men, and approximately 4,000 civilians.

The larger cutters and patrol craft, it was explained, will act as integral parts of the fleet on such missions as they are fitted to carry out. The smaller vessels will be used for inshore and harbor protection.

Vessels involved in the transfer include seven 327-foot cutters, four 240-foot cutters, six 165-foot sea going cutters; sixteen 165-foot patrol cutters, thirty-three 125-foot patrol craft, thirteen tugs designed primarily for ice breaking and harbor work, sixty-eight lighthouse tenders, eleven 80-foot patrol craft, sixty-four 70-foot patrol craft, and a number of miscellaneous and special service vessels.

The breakdown on Coast Guard officers and enlisted men transferred to the Navy follows:

Regular Commissioned Officers .....	611
Reserve Commissioned Officers .....	188
Regular Chief Warrant Officers .....	427
Reserve Chief Warrant Officers .....	13
Regular Warrant Officers .....	428
Reserve Warrant Officers .....	40
Cadets .....	335
Regular Enlisted Personnel .....	20,785
Reserve Enlisted Personnel .....	1,052

Activities Continue

General opinion at Coast Guard Headquarters on the immediate effect of the transfer upon Coast Guard activities is perhaps best recorded in the statement of a Coast Guard official who said, "If I hadn't read about the transfer in the newspapers, I would hardly know that such a move had been made." All divisions of the Coast Guard, it was pointed out, will continue to operate as before. Whereas previously, all activities were under the authority of the Secretary of the Treasury, now these activities are under the Secretary of the Navy. A change in administration, then, has thus far been the only basic change.

It was pointed out further that close

In a dramatically written editorial, the Altoona, Pa., Tribune says, "Somewhere out on the Atlantic, somewhere on the Pacific today a U. S. Navy ship is patrolling. High above may be a navy patrol plane. Along our coasts and at many inland points, navy men are stationed. All are a part of the first line of defense for these United States."

Emphasizing the importance of the air arm of the Navy, the Burlington, Vt., Free Press says, "The arm of the fleet is also receiving plenty of attention these days, particularly since the sinking of Britain's battleship Hood by a lucky hit from a Nazi bomber. Figures are not being published, but it is known that the United States Navy air force is growing by leaps and bounds." To this is added the Free Press opinion that, "It is significant that when the shake-up occurred in the navy command earlier this year, Rear Adm. Ernest J. King, who is also a naval aviator, was given command of the Atlantic fleet with 125 vessels of all types at his disposal."

If one central thought could be culled from the editorial comment on Navy Day, it would be that expressed in the Cleveland, Ohio, Plain Dealer, which says, "Today as we observe Navy Day at the most critical period in our nation's history, when democracy is threatened with a totalitarian blackout, we have something to celebrate. The Navy is ready."

The Roanoke, Va., Times is a bit more specific on this matter, and says "Whether it be in the stormy North Atlantic, the sparkling Caribbean or the blue Pacific, the Navy is ready and competent to do whatever job is assigned it. Neither the Axis sea power nor the warships of Japan present a menace with which our Navy cannot cope."

The Lancaster, Pa., Intelligencer-Journal continues the theme of Navy preparedness and says, "With U-boats once again ranging the Atlantic and the Yellow Men acting up in the Pacific, the condition of our Navy is of great concern to all of us. That she will be ready, when and if the time comes, does not seem to be wishful thinking in view of her present record."

The Portland, Me., Press-Herald, in its editorial, seems also to capture the confidence of other newspaper editors who commented on the celebration of Navy Day. The Press-Herald says, "Navy Day, 1941, today, finds the U. S. Navy on guard in two oceans. It finds our ships of war actually engaged in hostilities in one sea and on the verge of the greatest test in our naval history in the other. It finds our Navy the largest and strongest it has ever been, and moving rapidly toward a two-ocean fleet, the most powerful sea force known to mankind."

liaison with the Navy will not come as something new to the Coast Guard. For many years, a Coast Guard liaison officer has been stationed at the Navy Department. Today, that position is held by Capt. Edward D. Jones, USCG. At one time, Admiral Waesche, present commandant, served as Coast Guard liaison officer of the Navy.

The Coast Guard notwithstanding the transfer of control to the Navy Department will continue to carry on its normal operations in enforcing revenue laws of the nation, carrying out ship protection and rescue work, and kindred duties. This it must do under law.

In testimony on the Supplemental National Defense Appropriation Bill, reported in the 11 Oct. issue of the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL, Admiral Waesche told members of Congress that the Coast Guard was at that time 35 per cent a part of the Navy. Thus, the executive order actually affected only the remaining 65 per cent of the Coast Guard.

A Navy Department announcement this week revealed that the title of "District Commander" has been suspended while the Coast Guard is operating under the Navy. Officers who were formerly known as district commanders will be addressed as Senior Coast Guard Officer, 1st Naval District, Senior Coast Guard Officer, 3rd Naval District, etc. A complete break-down of Coast Guard district commanders' addresses follows:

Senior Coast Guard Officer	Former District Commander of
1st Naval District	Boston District
3rd Naval District	New York District
4th Naval District	Philadelphia District
5th Naval District	Norfolk District
6th Naval District	Charleston District, located at Jacksonville, Fla.
7th Naval District	Jacksonville District
8th Naval District	New Orleans District
Chicago, 9th Naval District	Chicago District
Cleveland, 9th Naval District	Cleveland District
St. Louis, 9th Naval District	St. Louis District
10th Naval District	San Juan District
11th Naval District	Los Angeles District
12th Naval District	San Francisco District
Seattle, 13th Naval District	Seattle District
Ketchikan, 13th Naval District	Ketchikan District
14th Naval District	Honolulu District

In order to avoid delay, routine correspondence for the Charleston District instead of being sent to the Senior Coast Guard Officer of the Sixth Naval District at Jacksonville, may be addressed direct to the Senior Coast Guard Officer, Charleston, South Carolina.

Ordnance Production Rates

Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson told his press conference this week that the Ordnance Department would be delivering to the Army by June, 1942, 300 times as much ordnance materiel as was being delivered when Hitler invaded France in May, 1940. Secretary Stimson explained that these production figures come from Maj. Gen. Charles M. Wesson, Chief of Ordnance, who explained in a report that as the present time ordnance deliveries are being made at 80 times the rate they were being made in May, 1940.

These announced rates of production and delivery reflect completely assembled items only. It was explained that they do not include the tens of thousands of individual parts which go to make up completely assembled items.

Navy Selection Board

A selection board will be convened at the Navy Department on 17 Nov., to recommend lieutenants (jg) of the Line for promotion to lieutenant. Capt. Augustine H. Gray, USN, is president of the board. Other members include the following captains, USN: Franklin S. Speinwachs, Ernest G. Small, Aaron S. Merrill, Chapman C. Todd, Jr., Gordon Hutchins, Harold J. Nelson, Samuel R. Shumaker, and Ralph E. Davidson. Lt. Comdr. Henry Crommelin, USN, is recorder.

Commands 3rd Inter. Command

The War Department announced this week that Brig. Gen. Clarence L. Tinker, has been designated as head of the Third Interceptor Command, Third Air Force, Drew Field, Fla. General Tinker, who is at present head of the 3rd Bomber Command succeeds Maj. Gen. Walter H. Frank, who has been made commander of the Third Air Force.

Allow Maximum Xmas Furlough

The War Department announced this week that routine troop movements involving change of station will be suspended from 12 Dec. to 12 Jan. 1942, so that the maximum number of soldiers may take advantage of Christmas furloughs.

Selection boards will recommend for promotion, within the number which they have been instructed to select, those officers whose records, in their opinion, indicate that they are competent to perform the duties of the next higher grade. Such recommendations shall be submitted to the Secretary of the Navy for his approval, in whole or in part. The names of the officers so recommended for promotion and approved by the Secretary of the Navy, shall be placed upon promotion lists and, subject to the provisions of paragraph three below, temporary promotions to higher rank shall be made from among officers whose names appear on such lists.

2. Ensigns of the Navy and 2nd lieutenants of the Marine Corps, if certified by the Chief of the Bureau of Navigation or the Major General Commandant as qualified, may be temporarily promoted to the next higher respective grade and rank in such numbers as may be recommended by the Secretary of the Navy and approved by the President.

3. A retired officer on a temporary promotion list will be promoted with date of rank the same as that of the junior officer of the active list of the same rank and corps who was placed on the temporary promotion list on or about the same date and whose length of service in rank equals, or is greater than, that of the retired officer concerned. If the length of service in rank of the retired officer is greater than that of the senior active officer of the same rank on that promotion list, the date of rank will be the same as that of such senior active list officer. In the administration of this regulation retired officers of the Construction Corps shall be regarded as line officers.

4. Officers whose names are placed upon a promotion list for permanent promotion, shall be temporarily promoted to the rank for which selected in advance of any officers on the promotion list for temporary promotion to that rank.

Marine Corps Promotion

The Navy Department announced this week that with respect to temporary appointments and promotions in the U. S. Marine Corps authorized by Congress, recommendations have been called for and are being received in large numbers, in the cases of chief warrant and warrant officers and enlisted men of the regular service and of the reserve and retired lists on active duty.

All recommendations will be referred to a board of officers, which will convene shortly, to examine the records of the personnel recommended and to prepare eligible lists.

After approval of these lists by the Secretary of the Navy and the President of the United States, temporary appointments of regular, reserve and retired personnel will be made during the ensuing fiscal year to meet the needs of the service. The numbers of such temporary appointments will be announced as soon as approved by the President.

Bonus May Be Paid Scouts

The Comptroller General has decided that at the discretion of the Secretary of War some portion of or the entire amount of $10 per month may be paid to Philippine Scouts as a monthly bonus for service in excess of 12 months.

Subscribe and re-subscribe to the Army and Navy Journal and keep yourself informed of the news of the services.

Action on Pay Bill

Immediately after introducing the pay bill, Senator Johnson conferred with members of his subcommittee—Senator Downey, of California; Hill, of Alabama; Gurney, of South Dakota, and Bridges, of New Hampshire—and also with Senator Walsh, of Massachusetts, chairman of the Senate Naval Affairs Committee, to determine what procedure they wished to follow.

Following his talks with the members individually, Senator Johnson called a meeting of his committee on Thursday, 6 Nov., at which all but Senator Downey were present. As a result of the meeting it was decided to write to the Secretary of the Navy, Secretary of the Treasury, Secretary of Commerce and Federal Works Administrator to obtain their reactions to the proposed bill.

The department heads were requested to submit their views "as soon as practicable."

Further plans of the committee are rather indefinite, but a second meeting of the committee probably will be held within the next week or two.

In his letter to the committee, Secretary Stimson said:

"The War Department concurs in the recommendations contained in this report, and it is requested that the proposed legislation be given favorable consideration."

"Copies of the report have been referred to the heads of the departments concerned, but as their views are at present unknown to the War Department, nothing contained herein or in the report submitted by the pay committee should be construed as reflecting their views."

"In view of the desire of your committee that the report be presented promptly, it has not been submitted to the Bureau of the Budget. It should be understood, therefore, that it involves no commitment whatever as to its relationship to the program of the President."

Army "Spots" Tea to Soldiers

American soldiers are drinking one cup of tea to every seven cups of coffee, and the government has established a standard quality for Army and Navy tea purchases, placing all the buying for the services under the supervision of the Food and Drug Administration, it was learned this week.

This year the Army plans to purchase 2,100,000 pounds of tea, which is expected to make 160 to 175 cups per pound, or a minimum total of 336,000,000 cups. Coffee purchases for the same period are scheduled to make 2,400,000,000 drinks, or forty cups per pound.

The entire Army tea supply will be purchased through the Quartermaster of the 2nd Corps Area, Jersey City, N. J. The standard specifies a black-grade leaf that will yield a drink with plenty of body. Black leaves have been specified because of the unsettled conditions in the Orient and the difficulty of obtaining large quantities of green tea.

Camp Polk Officers' Club

Camp Polk, La.—Friday night, 31 Oct., marked the formal opening of the new Officers' Club at Camp Polk. Music by the post orchestra was furnished for dancers during the dinner hour and later. About 400 persons attended.

Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Alvan C. Gillen reserved a table for eight. Their guests included Mayor and Mrs. Jean King of Leesville; Mayor and Mrs. C. R. Middleton and Mr. and Mrs. J. G. LaCase of De Ridder. Occupying the table reserved by Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Vincent Meyer were Col. Roland P. Shugg, Lt. Col. Clinton M. Lucas, Maj., and Mrs. Russell Smith, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. ### Training in Convoy Movements

Analyzing the deficiencies noted during the recent maneuvers, Lieutenant General Ben Lear, commanding general of the Second Army, has called certain points to the attention of his command with a view to having them corrected during current training.

The deficiencies noted in convoy movements and establishment of bivouacs were:

a. Failure to perform first and second echelon maintenance of motor vehicles. This resulted in unnecessary motor failures with resultant straggling of serials.

b. Failure of convoy commanders to exercise proper control over both vehicles and troops. As a result march tables were not observed; truck columns were jammed and unnecessary traffic congestion created, together with a general disregard of march discipline.

c. Failure to establish bivouacs promptly and without confusion. Sanitation in bivouacs was frequently unsatisfactory.

d. Unkept appearance of personnel, vehicles and equipment.

e. Failure to determine beforehand the authorized items of equipment to be carried, and the prescribing of uniform methods of loading same.

f. Permitting unauthorized personnel, both civil and military, to ride in government vehicles.

g. Travel at excessive speeds, particularly in towns.

In order to correct these, and similar deficiencies, further training will be directed in orders from this headquarters, for troop movements by motor to various localities.

USS Salinas Torpedoed

The Navy Department this week announced that the USS Salinas, naval oil tanker, has reached port in safety despite serious damage incurred when the vessel was torpedoed without warning during the night of 29-30, Oct., southwest of Iceland. There was no loss of life nor serious injury to personnel.

Announcement of the attack was withheld until the vessel reached port in safety. No details of the damage will be released as it will be of no value except to the Nazis, the Navy Department said. The ship was in a convoy when attacked, which was about a day prior to the attack and sinking of the USS Reuben James. The USS Salinas was built in 1920 and was transferred to the U. S. Navy and commissioned 16 Dec. 1921. The ship is of 16,800 tons displacement and carries a complement of 107 men; length 463 feet and beam of 60 feet. The ship is armed with two 5-in. guns and a battery of anti-aircraft guns.

The commanding officer is Comdr. Harley F. Cope, USN.

Launch Flying Boat Today

The Navy Department announced this week that at the suggestion of officials of the Glenn L. Martin Co., the Navy's new patrol bomber, the largest flying boat ever constructed in this country, will be named "Mars" after the mythological god of war. The plane will be launched today at the plant of the Martin Co., Middle River, Md.

Designed primarily as a long-range bomber, the plane has a flight range in excess of any flying boat heretofore produced. Its actual flight range is regarded as a Naval secret, but it is admitted that the plane is easily capable of flying across the Atlantic and return non-stop. Fully loaded, it will weigh approximately 135,000 pounds. It has a wing span of 181 feet, is powered by four 2,000 horsepower engines, and mounts the largest propeller ever fitted on an airplane. "Mars" has a fuel capacity of approximately a tank car load of gasoline.

The plane is designed to carry a normal crew of 11 men. Interior space will be approximately the same as a ten-room house. It will be capable of taking off and landing in extremely rough weather and as a safety device "Mars" will carry a collapsible motor boat, powered by a portable motor.

Mrs. Artemus L. Gates, wife of the Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Air will sponsor the plane in ceremonies scheduled for this afternoon. Following sponsoring and christening ceremonies the plane is scheduled for a "short test hop."

Navy Appropriation Asked

Congress was asked this week by President Roosevelt to appropriate an additional $309,820,000 for the Navy, and to authorize additional contractual obligations amounting to $140,000,000.

The contract authorization and $309,720,000 of the cash would be applied to purchase of aircraft and parts, while $100,000 would be used to augment existing appropriations for care of the dead. Of the latter sum, $10,000 would be to reimburse for expenditures during the past fiscal year.

USNA Alumni in Supply

A bill, S. 2034, has been introduced by Senator Walsh, of Mass., providing that Naval Reserve officers who were graduates of the Naval Academy and who were appointed to the Supply Corps of the Regular Navy on or after 1 Aug. 1941, should have the same rank and precedence as that they held in the Naval Reserve.

Navy, Marine Allowances

The President this week approved a bill, S. 1701, which reimburses certain retired and Reserve personnel of the Navy and Marine Corps ordered to active duty after declaration of the emergency for travel money and allowances to which the Comptroller General held they were not entitled because of wording of the orders.

A House amendment agreed to by the Senate also pays personnel ordered to duty since start of the emergency for travel of dependents from home to first duty station.

Navy Promotions

The Navy Department announced this week that the following officers recently selected for promotion to captain in the Medical Corps and Supply Corps have become eligible for promotion to rank from 1 July. Medical Corps officers are Commanders Even E. Smith, James W. Ellis, Bertram Groesbeck, Jr., Earl Richison, John L. Fraser, Jr., Millard F. Hudson, and John H. Robbin. Comdr. William V. Fox, SC, USN, is also eligible for promotion to rank from 1 July.

Security of Navy Ships

The Senate this week passed legislation, H. R. 5463, to empower local Coast Guard officers to regulate movements of merchant vessels so that they will not constitute a menace to U. S. Navy vessels present in harbors.

Such powers are also granted by the bill to the Governor of the Panama Canal and to the senior naval officer present at ports where Coast Guard forces are not present or are present in numbers too small to regulate shipping.

Marine Appointments

The following enlisted men of the Marine Corps have been appointed to warrant ranks indicated, effective 1 Nov.: Wallace Henry, Marine Gunner; Johnny Jennings, Marine Gunner; Franklin Pierce, Marine Gunner; Glenn R. Nichol, Quartermaster Clerk; Horace "D" Geer, Marine Gunner; Laurence A. Densing, Marine Gunner; and William O. Adams, Pay Clerk.

Sponsors Designated

Secretary of the Navy Knox, has designated Mrs. John Wehle of Lansdowne, Pa., and Mrs. William Anderheggen, Bronxville, N. Y., to sponsor the destroyers USS Butler and the USS Gansevoort, respectively.

20 seconds to go . . . "Up periscope . . . FIRE ONE!"

Elgin National Watch Company, Elgin, Illinois, U. S. A.

ELGIN STOP WATCH—one of the many precision instruments now being produced under government order as Elgin's contribution to America's defense.

A TORPEDO HIT—in maneuvers or in combat—is the result of perfect timing. Here, as in many other naval operations at sea, Elgin precision instruments prove their dependability.

● Once the "enemy" is sighted—Uncle Sam's submarines have the problem of approaching to within firing range without being detected. This calls for submerging and advancing on a definite bearing for a carefully calculated number of minutes and seconds ticked off on the navigational officer's stop watch. Then the brisk order, "Up periscope!" The target is caught in the cross-hairs. "Fire one!" And the submarine launches the first of its deadly underwater missiles.

For such exacting work as this in the Submarine Service, Elgin stop watches prove their dependability. In addition, the government has also called on Elgin for the production of many other precision instruments vital to America's army, navy and aviation defense forces.

When the call came—Elgin was ready. Scientific and research equipment, the finest in the watchmaking world, was immediately focused on the new problems. And to the creation of these needed precision instruments was brought the experience and skill of Elgin's fourth-generation master craftsmen.

Every Elgin precision instrument—tested to the most exacting scientific standards—is thoroughly American. Each part is designed and created in the Elgin factory—the largest in the world devoted to the manufacture of fine timepieces.

OUR PRIORITY LIST

1. Legislative assurance, now, that our land, sea, and air forces will be maintained at such strengths as may be determined by the War Department General Staff and the General Board of the Navy to be necessary to guard the nation and its interests against any enemy or combination of enemies.
2. Upward revision of pay schedules for commissioned, warrant and enlisted personnel, active and retired; all temporarily promoted officers to receive pay of grade in which serving.
3. A long range study by the General Board of the Navy to the end that an equitable and just system of promotion for the line and staff of the Navy and Marine Corps be enacted into law.
4. Revision of pension laws to assure service widows a living income.
5. Compensation for service personnel who use privately owned automobiles on government business.

GREAT as have been the tasks allotted to the United States Marine Corps since its humble founding 166 years ago, the responsibilities before it today are probably as weighty as any in its glorious and honored career. New battleships and new cruisers constantly being added to the Fleet, call for their complements of Marines, while modern warfare places increasing emphasis on amphibious operations—a function in which the Marines have been trained and utilized throughout their history. Naval bases mean more work for the Marine Corps, for another of their traditional duties is garrisoning existing bases and seizing and holding advanced bases in war times. In its position of peril today, the United States is more conscious of the value of bases than ever before. Already through negotiation with England and Iceland we have a chain extending from the north Atlantic to the southern Caribbean, while in the Pacific the Aleutian-Hawaiian-Panama triangle is similarly being implemented. As General Holcomb points out in his article on the first page of this issue of the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL, the Marine Corps has furnished one large holding expeditionary force and many new small detachments. There will be more.

The 166 years of Marine Corps history have been years of intense activity. In wars the Marines have fought with the Army, with the Navy, and independently, bringing honors and renown to their standards, while the years of peace for the nation usually have found the Marines protecting United States interests in far-flung lands and in undeclared wars. Today the valiant Corps has taken the new weapons and tactics of modern warfare and molded them to its own use. Land and sea aviation, sea going tanks, parachute troops, antiaircraft artillery—all have been incorporated into the fine force which the nation and the other components of National Defense join in honoring on its birthday.

THE able members of the Interdepartmental Pay Committee, under the leadership of Brigadier General Wade H. Haislip, have set an example of speed and unity of purpose, which, if followed by the committees of Congress, will result in the first general overhauling of service pay schedules in 33 years. The Senate Military Affairs Committee, at the behest of Senator Lister Hill of Alabama, requested the War Department to initiate an interdepartmental study of the pay schedules of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Coast Guard, Public Health Service, and the Coast and Geodetic Survey. In a little more than a month the group of service representatives turned out an exhaustive report and an entirely new redrafting of the Joint Pay Act, which, unlike the previous effort, has the backing of representatives of all the services. The day of its introduction into the Senate, this new pay bill was published in the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL thus giving all concerned an opportunity to study its provisions before the committee acts. While all interested groups should be given an opportunity to be heard on such portions of the bill as they believe should be changed, it is to be hoped that the plan of Senator Edwin C. Johnson, chairman of the subcommittee, to hold only short hearings and promptly report the bill will be successful. The studied views and opinions of the personnel experts of the Services are incorporated in the report, so there would be little point in reviewing all of that ground. Fortunately, there appears to be a generally favorable attitude in the Senate Military Affairs Committee toward an upward revision of Service pay. Little has been heard from the House Military Affairs Committee on the subject, but there is reason to believe that if the Senate acts the House will do so. Nothing yet has been heard from the Administration. Endorsement of the measure, either directly from the White House or from the Bureau of the Budget stating that it is in accordance with the President's financial program, would go far toward assuring its enactment. We urge the President to make known his approval of this measure not only as an act of justice to the personnel but also as a stimulus to the entire defense training program.

Blissful Realization

The General's wife was putting the finishing touches to her elaborate reception.

"Jim," she said to the General's chauffeur, "I want you to stand at the drawing room door, and call the guests' names as they arrive."

Cpl. Jim Clement's face lit up. "Thank you ma'am," he answered, "I've been wanting to do that to some of your friends for years."

The romantic lyric of Private Doe and his sweetheart, which appeared in the 25 Oct. issue, has been most humorously completed by Cpl. "HAE" who may or may not have had a similar experience. He didn't say in his letter.

'Neath the crescent moon's pale light,
Private Doe and his girl did fight,
With a right and a left,
And a kick quite deft,
She left the soldier a gory sight.

We wouldn't say that the following limerick, submitted by Pvt. "RVD," was inspired by the introduction in Congress last week of the interdepartmental pay study. Then again, that may just have been the reason. In either case, last lines to the following limerick are invited for publication in the 22 Nov. issue.

There was once a soldier named Ray,
Who spent every cent of his pay,
With a hike in the rate,
And luck with dice fate,

ASK THE JOURNAL

SEND your queries to the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL QUESTION EDITOR and an answer will be given in this column as soon as possible after receipt.

R. H. C. and others—The Eligible list for promotion to master and technical sergeant, Air Corps, expired on 31 Sept. The Chief of Air Corps has asked for recommendations from the field for compiling new lists. These lists are expected in his office on 1 Nov., and will be ready for promotions on 15 Nov. No promotions have been made since 1 Sept., and none will be made until the new list is compiled.

C. C. M.—Regret that without using your name and station we will be unable to check status of your application for commission. Your letter is on file, and if you forward name and station we will be glad to make inquiry of BuNav.

E. P. G.—The Army does not grant discharges to permit men to serve with any foreign government.

H. A. P.—H. R. 4343, to give Marine and Army first sergeants pay of first grade is still in House Military Affairs Committee and we cannot predict when action will be had. Interdepartmental pay committee has asked Congress to increase pay of second grade substantially, which will in part take care of this situation.

D. E. D.—Fact that warrant as technical sergeant dates from original warrant as first sergeant will not make the technical sergeant warrant permanent if issued after date all warrants became temporary.

DEVOTION TO DUTY IS A TELEPHONE TRADITION

High morale, devotion to duty, ingenuity in meeting new circumstances and the ability and will to work with each other and with the public are traditional characteristics of telephone employees.

Times like these not only demand these characteristics, they serve to create and extend them.

Now, more than ever, the creed of telephone workers is expressed in these words—"We'll do our best to get your call through."

BELL TELEPHONE SYSTEM

"THE TELEPHONE HOUR" is broadcast every Monday evening over the N. B. C. Red Network.

SERVICE NEWS AND GOSSIP

Foreign Affairs—It is evident from the events of the week that the new Japanese government of General Tojo will make no hasty departure from the policy of the ministry of Prince Konoye. That policy contemplates the adjustment of the disputes with the United States, so as to end the embargoes imposed by this country, and Great Britain and the Dutch East Indies. It contemplates also adherence to the Triple Alliance and the New Order in East Asia. In the hope of inducing concessions, the Japanese press has renewed its attacks upon the adamant attitude of the United States, and has been emphasizing that unless it be modified, drastic action will follow the meeting of the Japanese Parliament on 15 November. That these threats do not represent the government's present view is evidenced by several developments. The State Department has been informed that General Tojo is prepared to continue negotiations with this government, and has sent another agent to Washington in the hope of effecting a mutually satisfactory arrangement. Berlin has been compelled to admit there is no chance that Japan will construe the sinking of the Reuben James, and the damages inflicted by torpedoes on the Kearny and the naval oil tanker Salinas, and the attack upon the Greer, as requiring the implementation of the Triple Alliance. Following the clash of border guards, the Mongolian Peoples Republic and Manchukuo signed a protocol defining the boundary in the Bor Nor region, which Moscow and Tokyo approved. In connection with this agreement, the new foreign minister of Japan reiterated that his government was acting in accordance with the neutrality pact signed on 13 April by Stalin and Matsuoka, the latter at the time occupying the post of Foreign Minister.

It does not follow from these incidents that the relations of the United States and Japan have improved. In fact, the tension, if anything, has increased, as shown by the orders to the navy personnel in Guam to send their families home. Japanese business has been gravely injured by the embargoes and reports have reached Washington that many influential business leaders, feeling that war could not bring greater suffering, are inclining toward the radical army element, which wants war. However, General Tojo is the representative of the whole army, and as he was recommended by Prince Konoye as his successor, his disposition is regarded as conservative. The fact that he favors continuance of negotiations with the United States, would seem to show he is resisting the warlike among his advisers. The boundary settlement with Mongolia also is a sign that he is unwilling to approve an invasion of Siberia at this time. Russia is still fighting, continues strong in Siberia, and the action of the United States in pressing Finland to make peace with the Soviets, indicates we would look with serious concern upon any move by the Japanese upon their Pacific territory.

The representations we have made to Finland are the consequence of the appeal of Stalin to Britain to declare war on that country and Roumania and Hungary. Winston Churchill has been loath to take this action, preferring to limit the war scope of his government. However, he is prepared to comply with the request as to the Balkan states, and is hesitating only as to Finland because of the sympathy in England and the United States for her. The discussions between London and Washington finally resulted in the decision for us to urge the Helsinki government to make peace on the agreement of the Soviet Union to recognize its sovereignty over the territory taken as a result of the war between them in 1939. Finnish radio announcement yesterday that "military operations are drawing to a close," would indicate success of the American appeal, although Finnish spokesmen have been emphatic that they will not make a separate peace with Soviet Russia. Yesterday's report said that "Finland will not carry on any longer than is necessary for her own safety and defense." To further help the Russians carry on their resistance to the Nazis, President Roosevelt yesterday announced a billion dollar loan to the Soviets.

There is no doubt the suggestion of peace made by the Turkish government was inspired by Hitler on the occasion of his conference with Turkish generals. The suggestion was promptly vetoed by Britain. Nevertheless, there are persistent rumors that an effort to make peace will be launched during the coming winter. Hitler's situation at home has suffered as a result of the heavy casualties sustained by his armies. In England strikes have been occurring, and Churchill is about to face again a Parliament which contains additional critics because of his failure to send a British Expeditionary Force to the continent as strongly urged by Stalin, or to attack in Libya. As the British Empire has lost no territory, but in fact has acquired Ethiopia, the peace champions feel that negotiations can be started, which would do no hurt to British prestige.

In the meantime, the world watched the Senate in connection with the neutrality law repeal, and also the mayoralty election in New York. The small majority in the Senate for the repeal is accepted generally as an indication that the United States was not unified for war. The reelection of Mayor La Guardia also was looked upon, because of the narrow majority he received, as evidence of American division, the more striking because President Roosevelt had endorsed the Mayor. These occurrences were accepted as proof that the Chief Executive does not have the country squarely behind his strong policy. However, this diplomatic view loses sight of the fact that continued sinkings of American ships will change public sentiment quickly, and the truth of this fact will be recognized when it is recalled that the entire nation grimly accepted war in 1917 after Germany inaugurated her unrestricted submarine warfare, and began to sink our ships "without trace."

Chaplains—Although the importance of the Army chaplain's duties is perhaps not best explained in a statistical analysis of activities, figures released by the War Department this week reveal a marked increase in attendance at services. Whereas in the fiscal year ending 30 June 1940, the average attendance at a service was 68.8 persons, it rose to 97.8 30 June 1941.

At the same time, it was revealed that chaplains during the last fiscal year made 25,385,115 contacts with soldiers; performed 2,237 marriages, 2,670 baptisms, and officiated at 3,172 funerals. A total of 118,990 services were held, which were attended by 11,640,000 soldiers.

This is a story of the Army and a family. It is the story of a white satin kneeling cushion which was presented this week to Chaplain William R. Arnold, Chief of Army Chaplains, by Mrs. Seth W. Cook, Washington, D. C., mother of 1st Lt. Bailey C. Cook, AC, and wife of the late Lt. Col. Seth W. Cook, AC. The kneeling cushion will be forwarded to the Commanding General, Puerto Rican Department for final presentation to the new Army chapel at Borinquen Field, Puerto Rico. The cushion will be used for the first time on 7 Dec., during the marriage ceremony of Lieutenant Cook to 2nd Lt. Mary E. Downs, ANC.

And still the Army angle continues. Lieutenant Cook, who represents the fourth generation of his family to serve the Army, is the grandson of Col. H. G. Cavenaugh, Inf., who served through the Civil and Spanish-American wars, and is the great-grandson of James La Tourrette, one of the first Army chaplains, who served as post chaplain, Ft. Columbus, N. Y., in 1867.

Army chaplains will participate next week in Armistice Day activities, during which they will lead soldiers in ceremonies commemorating the cessation of hostilities in World War I.

Marine Corps—Secretary of the Navy Knox this week announced that the U. S. Marine Corps has reached a total man power of 64,053 officers and men, and that training in various types of combat operations is progressing to make the "soldiers of the sea" one of the nation's most powerful fighting units. A break-down on total strength of the Marine Corps shows 1,615 Regular Marine Corps Commissioned officers; 233 Regular Marine Corps Warrant officers, 150 Retired Commissioned officers recalled to active duty, 10 retired warrant officers recalled for active duty, 1,604 Marine Corps reserve officers on active duty, 14 reserve warrant officers on active duty, 148 aviation cadets on active duty, 48,237 Regular enlisted men and 12,012 reserve enlisted men on active duty.

The First Marine Division has moved into a temporary camp at the new Marine Base, New River, N. C., pending completion of permanent barracks at that place in the spring of 1942. Intensive amphibious training is being conducted at New River and San Diego, Calif.

A Barrage Balloon School has been organized and is functioning at Parris Island, S. C. Personnel are under instruction there and operating balloon units are being formed as fast as the balloons become available and the personnel trained.

The location of the Marine Corps Flying Field at the Marine Corps Base, New River, N. C., has been approved and construction is starting immediately. It is anticipated that this field will be used for airplanes assigned to command missions, the training of parachute troops and training of air Infantry in gliders. Work will be pushed through to completion as rapidly as possible in order that the above mentioned activities may be put into operation without delay. Jumping towers are now being installed at New River and San Diego which will permit the rapid expansion of parachute and Infantry troop training. A glider program has also been initiated.

The First Marine Division and the First Marine Aircraft Wing, and the Second Marine Division and the Second Marine Aircraft Wing, now assigned to the Atlantic and Pacific Fleets, respectively, are being brought to full strength as rapidly as personnel and equipment become available.

Secretary of the Navy Knox addressed the third Officers' Candidates' Class at its graduation exercises held in the Marine Corps School, Quantico, Va., last Saturday. Three hundred college graduates who have been attending the school since 1 June were commissioned as second lieutenants in the Marine Corps Reserve and immediately ordered to active duty.

Among those present were, Maj. Gen. Thomas Holcomb, the Major General Commandant; Maj. Gen. Holland Smith, Maj. Gen. McCarty Little, Commanding General of the Marine Corps Barracks, Quantico; Brig. Gen. Samuel Harrington, in charge of Marine Schools; Brig. Gen. R. S. Geiger, Commanding General of the 1st Aircraft Wing; Col. L. C. Shepard, Jr., Executive Officer of the Marine Schools; Lt. Col. Bernard Dubel, Commanding Officer of the Candidates' Class; Lt. Col. M. J. Batchelder, Executive Officer of the Candidates' Class; Capt. K. K. Louthier, Adjutant-Secretary of Marine Schools; Capt. L. C. Hudson, Jr., Operations Officer of the Candidates' Class; Capt. J. J. Cosgrove, Jr., Adjutant for the Candidates' Class; and the following officers who served as commanding officers of the various companies comprising the class: Capt. R. W. Boyd and Richard Rothwell and 1st Lts. M. C. Schultz and L. W. Walt.

Infantry—Orders were issued this week for the transfer of the 30th Infantry Regiment, famed for its World War battle record, from the Presidio of San Francisco, Calif., to Ft. Lewis, Wash., where it will join the rest of the 3rd Infantry Division. The movement will also cause transfers of the 150th Infantry and one regiment of the 7th Division. The three cornered transfer of these regiments, all of which are stationed at Pacific Coast points, effects the assembly of the last of the Regular Army divisions.

As soon as adequate housing is available at Ft. Lewis, the 30th Infantry will go north by motor and rail to its new permanent station. The one regiment of the 7th Infantry Division, as yet unspecified, will move to the Presidio from Ft. Ord, Calif. Thereafter the 150th Infantry, now a part of the 40th Infantry Division, a National Guard Division, will move from Camp San Luis Obispo, Calif., to Ft. Ord for permanent assignment with the 7th Infantry Division. This will leave the 40th Infantry Division with three Infantry regiments, the same number which Regular Army divisions have.

Coast Artillery Corps—Launching of the General Henry Knox, the Army's newest mine planter, was held at Point Pleasant, W. Va., on 4 Nov. Constructed under supervision of the Quartermaster General for use by the Coast Artillery, the new vessel is named in honor of the first Secretary of War and to perpetuate the name of a former planter no longer in service.

Lt. Gen. Ben Lear, Commanding General of the Second Army, Memphis, Tenn., has commended the Commanding Officer and personnel of Battery B, 61st Coast Artillery, (AA), Fort Sheridan, Ill., for "the occupation and organization of a most difficult battery position in the vicinity of Camden, La., incident to the crossing of the Ouachita River by the Provisional Army Corps, Second Army, on 3-4 Sept., during the recent August-September maneuvers." The commendations, issued in a formal order further stated that "the officers and enlisted men are commended for their initiative, force and spirit displayed in accomplishing their mission under the most adverse conditions of terrain and weather."

Chemical Warfare Service—The Chemical Warfare Service is now preparing exhibits to be displayed at the OPM-Sponsored Clinics which will be held this month at Kansas City, Mo., Los Angeles, Calif., and San Francisco, Calif.

Lt. Col. Charles E. Loucks, executive officer, O-C, CWS; Lt. Col. John C. MacArthur, Chief of the Intelligence Division, O-C, CWS; Col. R. A. Osmen, Office of the Quartermaster General; and Maj. Kenner F. Hertford, Office of the Chief of Engineers, were present at an incendiary exhibition given last week at the Chemical Warfare School, Civilian Defense Class, Edgewood Arsenal, Md.

Maj. Raymond A. Phelps, CWS, heads a list of Chemical Warfare Service officers who have recently reported to the Office of the Chief of the Chemical Warfare Service. In addition to Major Phelps, who has been assigned to the construction division, In-

Bureau of Aeronautics—The Navy Department this week, in a comprehensive report on the growth of Naval aviation bases since 1939 announced that nearly 30 major bases, supplemented by many additional auxiliary bases and training stations are now handling the expanded aviation program of the Navy. Those now completed or under construction with those projected will take care of the 15,000 plane program, the announcement said.

The development of this phase of the defense program has been carried out at an exceedingly rapid rate, the Navy Department said. The first real expansion phase in the development of shore establishments came in February 1940 when the President, with the approval of Congress, made available $7,000,000 for use in providing facilities for the operation of an available patrol for the enforcement of neutrality. The program of providing these facilities was completed early in 1941.

Indicative of the magnitude of shore developments, including those for aviation bases and facilities, are the figures covering contracts entered into by the Navy through the Bureau of Yards and Docks for the fiscal years 1940 and 1941, $185,354,217 and $603,109,632, respectively. For the fiscal year 1942, which started 1 July of the current calendar year, approximately $394,500,000 had been contracted to 1 Oct.

The announcement added that many of the western hemisphere bases on the Atlantic are now serving the needs of the Navy's air arm, and all will be in use in the early months of 1942.

Army Air Forces—Despite the greatly increased amount of training and tactical flying now being done by the Army Air Forces and the use of new airplanes of much higher speeds, and performance, the accident rate in military flying during the past fiscal year has remained substantially unchanged. Although the number of miles flown by Army pilots and students has increased and is continuing to increase, the number of fatal accidents per mile flown continued practically unchanged in virtually every phase of military aviation activity.

The overall training accident rate is lower than the three-year pre-emergency average established during 1937, 1938 and 1939. All three phases of Army flight training showed decreased accident rates—an increase in safety. The accident rate in primary training during the past fiscal year was slightly below the average rate for the three-year pre-emergency period. In the basic training stage the accident rate was below the 1937-38-39 mean and also below the 1940 rate, which was far below average. The advanced training stage accident rate also was well below the three-year average but was slightly higher than the 1940 rate.

There has been a slight increase in the accident rate for pilots who have gone into combat squadrons fresh from flying schools. This increased rate actually has been lower than the rate which was expected in view of the fact that pilots with approximately 200 hours of flying experience are going into the cockpits of fast, high-performance warplanes.

According to aircraft experts, big news will be made when the performance details of the new plane engines being developed by Ford and Chrysler are finally announced. The Ford engine, a V-12, has already been put through preliminary tests, which have been reported as "surprisingly satisfactory." Chrysler's new engine, a V-12, is still in the experimental state, but is now expected to deliver 2,400 horsepower although it weighs little more than 1,900 pounds.

It is interesting to note that production is now getting underway on the Republic P-47 "Thunderbolt," the first of the Army's pursuit planes to carry a 2,000 horsepower motor. The P-40 pursuits carried motors ranging around 1,100 horsepower. Production will begin soon on a P-40 equipped with a 1,300 horsepower engine. The "Flying Fortress" bombers carry engines with an output of 1,200 to 1,600 horsepower. The B-19 bomber carried only 2,000 horsepower engines, an engine far too small for so huge a craft.

The larger horsepower engines, a goal to which the Army has been striving for many years, will greatly increase performance, range and maneuverability of its aircraft. In bombers it will increase their lifting capacity and allow for larger and more bombs. The same will be true in cargo planes. The more powerful engines will increase the speed and ability to pursue aircraft.

The British Air Ministry last week praised Lt. Melvin F. Mickle, USA, and the American technicians for their instruction to R.A.F. pilots on the use of Bell Airacobras, which are among the first American-made fighter planes to enter the air war. According to R.A.F. fliers, the Airacobras rival the British-built Hurricanes at any height and even Spitfires at lower levels, being faster and instantly responsive to adroit handling. More effectively armed than most German planes, the Airacobras have sent numbers of Messerschmitts in flames to the ground. As armored to meet British requirements, the planes carry smaller guns than those originally installed, since this enables them to add more ammunition and fire faster than the larger weapons.

Declaring that "fantastic reports have been circulated as to aircraft losses sustained by the R.A.F. on its ferry route from the West Coast of Africa to the Middle East war zone" the British Press Service this week stated that the number of losses during the last six months from all causes has been one percent, or one aircraft in every hundred. Losses due to the technical falling of the aircraft themselves have been described by one senior officer of the R.A.F. in charge of the route as negligible, working out at less than one machine in every 400 aircraft coming over.

Orders have been issued for the transfer of the following units, at current strengths, from present stations to new stations indicated below, for permanent change of station: Hq. and Hq. Sq., 2nd Air Support Command, from Ft. Douglas, Utah, to Oklahoma City, Okla.; Hq. and Hq. Sq., 4th Air Support Command, from Fresno, Calif., to Hamilton Fld., Calif.; and 326th Sig. Co., Air Wing, from Ft. Douglas, Utah, to Oklahoma City, Okla.

The units listed below are constituted and will be activated at the earliest practicable date with permanent stations at stations of activations: Base Det., Pine Camp, N. Y.; 8th AC Sq., Interceptor Control, Mitchel Fld., N. Y.; 20th AC Sq., Interceptor Control, Hamilton Fld., Calif.; 31st AC Sq., Interceptor Control, Ft. Wayne, Ind.; 312th Materiel Sq. (Sp.), Bolling Fld., D. C.; 33rd AC Sq., Interceptor Control, Mitchel Fld., N. Y.; 35th AC Sq., Interceptor Control, Hamilton Fld., Calif.; 49th AC Sq., Interceptor Control, West Palm Beach, Fla.; 313th Materiel Sq. (Sp.), Municipal Airport, Miami, Fla.; 50th AC Sq., Interceptor Control, Meridian, Miss.; 52nd AC Sq., Interceptor Control, Selfridge Fld., Mich.; 53rd AC Sq., Interceptor Control, Tallahassee, Fla.; 54th AC Sq., Interceptor Control, Everett, Wash.; 55th AC Sq., Interceptor Control, Portland, Ore.; 314th Materiel Sq. (Sp.), Boston, Mass.; 56th AC Sq., Interceptor Control, Charlotte, N. C.; 57th AC Sq., Interceptor Control, Windsor Locks, Conn.; 58th AC Sq., Interceptor Control, Baton Rouge, La.

Extension of the training period for pilots under the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan from 24 to 28 weeks was announced by the Royal Canadian Air Force Headquarters this week. Of most importance in the extension of the training period is the increase in instruction in aircraft recognition and in air navigation, which is given throughout the entire course. The announcement states "as our bombers extend their activity further and further afield, navigation instruction of pilot and observer and the ability to spot friend from foe, have become increasingly important."

Field Artillery—Col. Waldo C. Potter who has been the Executive Officer in the Office and Col. John B. Anderson who has been in charge of Personnel Section, received their appointments as Brigadier Generals this week. General Potter will leave soon for his new station at Fort Sill, Okla., where he will be in command of the Field Artillery Replacement Training Center. General Anderson's new assignment has not yet been announced.

Lt. Col. Rex W. Beasley who has been in charge of Materiel Section, will be the new Executive Officer and Lt. Col. John A. Stewart will take over his duties in the Materiel Section. Lt. Col. E. C. Norman has been ordered to duty in the Office, and will be in charge of Personnel matters.

Other Field Artillery officers who received their appointments as Brigadier Generals were Col. Vincent Meyer, Col. John S. Wood and Col. E. P. Parker. General Meyer will be in command of 18th FA Brigade at Ft. Sill, Okla. General Parker will remain in command of the Field Artillery Replacement Training Center at Fort Bragg, N. C.

The Office Chief of Field Artillery has been moved to Building M, located on 26th St. just north of Constitution Avenue. The office is located on the second floor, north wing, room number 2126.

Eleven field artillery officers will take the second course in military meteorology which begins 24 Nov. 1941 at California Institute of Technology, Pasadena. The course will last four months and upon completion the student officers will be detailed to Field Artillery Observation Battalions, and corps field artillery brigade headquarters batteries.

Cavalry—The following units of the 2nd Cavalry Division were activated effective 1 Nov. The units were organized within the current allotment of personnel of the 2nd Cavalry Division and without additional construction. The new units are as follows: Troop A (Ren.), 92nd Cavalry Recon. Sq.; 2nd Sig. Troop; Hq. and Hq. and Service Troop, 9th Eng. Sq.; Hq. and Hq. Battery, 2nd Cavalry Division Artillery; Hq. and Hq. Troop, 17th QM Sq.; Troop B (Trk.), 17th QM Sq.; Division Surgeon's Office, 2nd Cav. Div.; Hq. and Hq. Detach.; 2nd Med. Sq.; Troop A (Coll.), 2nd Med. Sq.; Clearing Troop, 2nd Med. mm. Sq.; Veterinary Troop, 2nd Med. Sq. The activation of the units mentioned above gives the 2nd Cavalry Division a full complement of all its various units, even though they may be below full strength. It is estimated that the unit is now at 90 percent its full strength.

Hydrographic Office—Five years of labor in the Navy Hydrographic Office has produced eight volumes of navigation tables of altitude and azimuth which will prove of great aid to navigators of surface and air craft. The tables are for all bright celestial bodies visible in the heavens from any specific point on earth, from the Equator to the poles, and for any given instant of watch time. They enable navigators of surface or aircraft to solve immediately the complex astronomical triangle formed in the sky by mere inspection of values published in these tables, thus eliminating tedious logarithmic computations with its chances of mathematical error.

During the 5-year period in which the volumes were in preparation, the Navy Hydrographic Office completed some 11,000,000 computations and made numerous checks to eliminate mathematical error and assure accuracy. The tables are issued in books of 10 degree bands for both North and South latitudes covering any locality in the world. Officially known as Hydrographic Office Publication No. 214 the books may be purchased by the general public at $2.25 per volume.

Bureau of Ships—Rear Adm. Harry E. Yarnell, USN-Ret., and Comdr. Thomas P. Wynkoop, Jr., USN, this week started their first inspection tour of the 147 shipyards now engaged in Navy and Maritime Commission contracts, which are taking part in the new incentive program recently adopted by the Bureau of Ships. Under this program each of the prize-winning shipyards will have the privilege of flying a specially designed Bureau of Ships pennant, indicating top-ranking efficiency of its classification during the period covered by the award.

It was also announced this week that Secretary of the Navy Knox has appointed a Board of Awards consisting of Rear Adm. George E. Rock, USN-Ret., Admiral Yarnell, and Mr. W. H. Harrison of OPM. Commander Wynkoop has been designated secretary of the Board of Awards.

Admiral Yarnell and Commander Wynkoop visited shipyards in Maine and Rhode Island this week. Towards the end of November, Rear Adm. George E. Rock and Commander Wynkoop will visit shipyards along the Southern Coast. They plan to visit the Far West and the Middle West during the month of December.

Finance Department—Lt. Col. Reml P. Heuper, FD, reported late last week to the Office of the Chief of Finance, where he assumed duties as Assistant Chief of Finance. Colonel Heuper occupies the position formerly held by Col. Edwin J. O'Hara, who is at present stationed at Headquarters, Ninth Corps Area, Presidio of San Francisco, Calif.

Finance officials this week announced that the 43rd Division disbursing account was activated on 1 Nov., at Chester, S. C., where the National Guard Division is on maneuvers. Lt. A. B. Lambdin is finance officer of the new unit.

Quartermaster Corps—The Construction Division, Office of the Quartermaster General, has organized a staff of combustion engineers, which this week engaged in an intensive study of the best methods of keeping the Army's million and a half men warm.

The group of engineers, composed of representatives from the staff of the Zone Constructing Quartermaster in each of nine Construction zones, began their short course on Monday, 3 Nov., at the factory of the Lennox Furnace Company, Syracuse, N. Y. From there, the party went to Ft. Ontario, N. Y., and then to Scranton, Pa., to observe the mining of anthracite coal, after which they went to Primus, Pa., for a demonstration by the Anthracite Institute Combustion Laboratory. The Army group and the instructor, Mr. S. B. Flagg, Consultant to the OPM, will visit Ft. Belvoir, Va., today.

The members of this group will, upon their return, inspect heating equipment at the Army posts within their zones, and will consult with and advise Post Utility Officers, instruct the firemen, and act to insure a constant source of heat, economical use of fuel and a minimum of breakdowns in equipment and service.

It was pointed out this week that the Army will use 3,000,000 tons of bituminous coal, 700,000 tons of anthracite, and 26,000,000 cubic feet of gas this winter.

Speaking before the annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, in Detroit, Mich., Col. John J. O'Brien, Chief of the Real Estate Branch, Construction Division, Office of the Quartermaster General, said this week that the War Department during the past fiscal year acquired 7,647,551 acres of land for use in the national defense program. Colonel O'Brien pointed out in his address that during the entire period of the last World War a total of 571,286 acres were acquired.

In an answer to newspaper reports which stated that substitutes in wool fabrics for the Army are being used, the Quartermaster Corps announced this week that no change is contemplated in the present specifications. Research is being carried out, however, on substitutes for wool, but at the present time, current specifications for woolen products will not be changed.

The War Department announced this week that contracts have been awarded by the Quartermaster Corps for the purchase of 1,550,000 wool "Overseas Caps." The new caps will replace service caps, with visors, which are now authorized for use only by enlisted men assigned to Corps Area Service Commands or War Department overhead.

A recent purchase of 214,600 Pyramid Tents by the Quartermaster Corps has introduced a new color and finish which will be utilized in all future procurements of heavy tentage. The bright khaki color formerly used has been replaced by a dark olive drab color which is much less conspicuous.

"Old Dobbin" will have an easier time eating his meals as a result of a new feeding device devised by the Remount Division, Front Royal, Va., Quartermaster Depot. The new device is an iron feed tub, which is somewhat larger than the galvanized iron feed boxes formerly used, and is so designed that the animal cannot toss out the grain on which he is feeding.

Armored Force—The first anniversary of the Armored Force School at Ft. Knox, Ky., was celebrated this week and for the first time in the history of the school all training was suspended by the 6,000 students and instructors. In an hour-long ceremony, marked by military band selections and a speech by Brig. Gen. Stephen G. Henry, organizer and commandant of the school, the entire personnel of the school in mass formation observed the anniversary. General Henry praised the work of the 700 instructors and commended them for their ingenuity in developing new training methods and instructional aids.

The school opened a year ago with a class of 216 officers and 1,700 enlisted men, and plans to graduate about 500 students a month. At the end of the first year, specialized training has been received by 952 officers and 11,860 enlisted men. Working in staggered increments 13 hours a day, six days a week, and employing the principles of assembly line production, the school is now graduating students at the rate of 1,440 officers and 22,000 enlisted men a year in eight different courses.

Staff officers and unit commanders of the newly organized 5th Armored Division, Ft. Knox, Ky., were announced this week. General Staff officers of the division follow: Col. John B. Wogan; Lt. Col. Leo G. Clarke, Acting Assistant Chief of Staff, G-1; Capt. Harrison R. Enteklin, Assistant to Assistant Chief of Staff, G-1; Maj. Douglas V. Johnson, Acting Assistant Chief of Staff, G-2; Maj. Rufus L. Land, Assistant to Assistant Chief of Staff, G-2; Lt. Col. Henry V. Dexter, Assistant Chief of Staff, G-3; Capt. Emil A. Lucke, Assistant to Assistant Chief of Staff, G-3; Lt. Col. J. J. Bethurum Williams, Assistant Chief of Staff, G-4; Maj. John T. Roberts, Assistant to Assistant Chief of Staff, G-4; Maj. Donald Q. Harris, Assistant to Assistant Chief of Staff, G-4.

Unit Commanders of the Division follow: Brig. Gen. Jack W. Heard, Commanding General, Fifth Armored Division; Capt. Paul J. Bryer, Hq. Co., 5th Armored Division; 1st Lt. Thomas B. Bartell, Hq. and Hq. Co., 5th Armored Division; Lt. Col. Frank A. Allen, Jr., 85th Recon. Bn. (Armd.); Col. Guy W. Chipman, 31st Armored Regt., (L); Col. Robert W. Grow, 34th Armored Regt. (L); Col. Vernon Evans, 81st Armored Regt. (M); Lt. Col. Harold W. Blakeley, 65th F.A. Regt.; Maj. John G. Howard, 58th F.A. Bn.; Lt. Col. John H. Ringe, 46th Inf. (Armd); Capt. Jefferson D. Childs, 21st Ord. Bn. (Armd); Maj. Ralph H. Slevers, 19th QM Bn. (Armd); Maj. Lee R. Williams, 145th Sig. Armd. Co.; Maj. Carlton D. Goodiel, 75th Med. Bn. (Armd); Maj. Reginald L. Dean, 22nd Eng. Bn. (Armd).

"Four by Four" Jeeps—The Army's latest answer to the modern warfare, where speed and mobility are foremost, has been the adoption of a new type "jeep" reconnaissance car, singularly known as the "four-by-four" jeep. This midjet reconnaissance vehicle, which has gained a permanent berth in the Army's fighting force, is an improvement over the older-type "jeeps" in that it incorporates a four-wheel steer as well as having the four-wheel drive characteristic of previous models.

The four-wheel steer gives the new model "jeeps" mobility heretofore unobtainable in any type vehicle. Steering apparatus on the new vehicles, manufactured by the Bantam Motor Car Corp., is synchronized so that both front and rear wheels turn in accordance with movement of the steering wheel. The "four-by-four" is according to reports, capable of turning on a 11-foot radius. It is described as most satisfactory for use in woods and rough terrain where trees or other obstacles would prevent the passage of less mobile vehicle.

According to officials, the "four-by-four" will be used to a great extent in reconnaissance as well as in the new GHQ Tank Destroyer battalion—or battalions if additional units of this type are formed. Previous models of "jeeps" already form an important fighting element of the GHQ Tank Destroyer Battalion, in that they mount 37 mm. guns and when used in conjunction with other elements of the Destroyer Battalion form what is described as a "highly satisfactory" defense against attacking tanks. The new "jeeps" it is believed will be even more satisfactory because of their ability to operate under more conditions impossible with present models.

The "four-by-four" jeeps are capable of a speed of approximately 60 miles per hour. A turn of the steering wheel to the left, moves the front wheels to the left—while the rear wheels cut to the right. A turn of the wheel to the right, reverses the direction of the "cut" in the wheels. To all appearances, when the "jeep" makes a turn it slides around with all four wheels seeming far out of proportion.

The Army's "jeeps" weigh only 2,200 pounds, but after a year and a half of service are recognized as highly successful. Designed to replace the motorcycles and side cars for reconnaissance work, the "jeeps" can go anywhere that a motorcycle can. It is utilized as a troop carrier, weapon carrier, or communications truck. It has no trouble pulling light field pieces, and has been successfully carried in transport planes. Experiments are now being conducted toward development of dropping these combat cars by giant parachutes from airplanes. Some 2,500 "jeeps" are now in use and more have been ordered. The Infantry and the Armored Force have about 1,000 each while the Cavalry and Field Artillery have another 400. Present plans call for 95 "jeeps" to each Infantry regiment.

Navy Register—The new 1941 Navy Register is off the presses of the Government Printing Office, in style very much like preceding issues, but lacking the notation of officers' assignments which formerly appeared opposite each name. Nor is this secrecy of assignment to be confined to the Register, for the semi-annual Directory, issued in April and October, will hereafter be restricted in its distribution.

The new Register lists as of 1 July 1941 a total of 9,743 commissioned officers and 2,017 warrant officers and chief warrant officers. In the Marine Corps on that date were 1,489 officers and 232 warrants and chief warrants.

The line of the Navy contained 7,577 names. The Medical Corps had 1,014, a substantial increase over 1 July 1940's 868 officers. There were 324 dental officers in 1941, and 275 in 1940; 593 Supply Corps officers in 1941, and 587 in 1940; 102 chaplains in 1941, and 93 in 1940, and 133 Civil Engineer Corps officers in 1941 as compared with 125 in 1940.

In the line, there were 84 flag officers in 1941, as compared with 79 in 1940. The number of captains had risen from 364 to 408; the number of commanders from 759 to 838; of lieutenant commanders from 1,493 to 1,586, and of lieutenants, from 1,897 to 2,002. The number of lieutenants (jg), however, fell from 1,311 on 1 July 1940 to 1,259 on 1 July 1941. The number of ensigns rose from 1,242 in 1940, to 1,400 in 1941.

The number of major generals in the Marine Corps (including the commandant), rose from 4 in 1940 to 5 in 1941; the number of brigadiers remained at nine. The number of colonels (including the three brigadier staff heads) rose from 57 in 1940 to 70 in 1941; the number of lieutenant colonels from 118 to 144; the majors from 200 to 232; the captains from 313 to 326; the first lieutenants from 345 to 347, and the second lieutenants from 293 to 356.

None of the figures given above takes in account the large number of reserve and retired officers and warrant officers now on duty with the Navy and Marine Corps.

Army Nurse Corps—Announcement was made this week of the promotion of eight nurses to the grade of first lieutenant, chief nurse. While five of the promotions are a result of examinations given on 15 Oct., two regular nurses, Virginia Kilroy, Ft. Bragg, N. C.; and Della Ward, Camp Claiborne, La., qualified for promotion in May. Other nurses who were promoted are Mary B. Shick, reserve, Ft. Storey, Va.; Francis F. Kasmara, reserve, Camp Forrest, Tenn.; Doris R. Goately, regular, and Helene M. Girodon, reserve, both stationed at Letterman General Hospital, Presidio of San Francisco, Calif.; and Annie G. Fox, regular, Hawaiian Department.

Nurse Corps officials stated that 67 nurses took the examination, of which number 24 regulars and 40 reserves qualified for promotion. Passing mark was 75 per cent.

Blood Plasma and the Services—A Navy Department announcement this week which told how blood plasma donated by an unidentified citizen saved the life of a sailor injured in the torpedoing of the USS Kearny has dramatically illustrated the important role plasma can play in the treatment of the injured. Chief Boatswain's Mate Leonard Frontaskowski, USN, is today recuperating in an Iceland hospital because blood plasma was parachuted from a plane, recovered from the sea, and administered to him aboard the torpedoed vessel. The sailor's condition, which had been considered very grave, began to show steady improvement after three plasma transfusions.

Even before the Navy Department announcement had been released, Maj. Gen. James C. Magee, Surgeon General of the Army, wrote in a letter to the Red Cross that blood donations of one pint each from 100,000 volunteers are required to meet current emergency needs in U. S. Army medical stations here and abroad.

In his letter to the official donor-recruiting agency, General Magee said, "Training an army of 1,600,000 men in the art of modern warfare is not without its hazards." He said that "one of the most valuable means of safeguarding the life of an accident victim suffering from shock or hemorrhage is the immediate administration of a blood plasma transfusion."

General Magee continued, "The need for 100,000 units of plasma is of an immediate nature. This is not a project of collecting and storing blood for future use in the event of war." He explained that if the United States became involved in hostilities a far greater amount of blood plasma would be needed.

At the same time, it was revealed that the Navy will also need 100,000 units of dry plasma for use on United States fighting ships engaged in the Atlantic patrol and in other danger spots on our defense front.

Approximately 20,000 donations already have been made, of which 15,000 have been processed and turned over to the Army and Navy for use. Nine thousand units were turned over to the Navy, while the remaining 6,000 units were distributed to the Army.

Recognizing the immediate need for plasma, the Red Cross has formulated and will soon put into effect plans which call for a great expansion in blood donor facilities. It was explained this week that whereas the donations are now being made in seven cities, it is planned to have 22 local chapters of the Red Cross engaged in this activity in the immediate future. Dr. G. Canby Robinson, who is National Director of the Blood Donor Service, said this week that arrangements have been made with seven laboratories for the processing of the blood. At the present time, only one laboratory is engaged in processing blood into plasma.

It was explained that the Army and Navy pay only for the actual processing of the blood at the laboratories. The blood is collected and shipped to the laboratories by the Red Cross. It was pointed out further that the seven laboratories are doing this work on a non-profit basis.

General Magee in his letter said that blood collected by Red Cross chapters now participating in the project is being processed into dry plasma, a form which keeps for years. It can be used immediately without cross-typing with the blood of the victim and can be carried into the field to be administered at the scene of an accident.

A consignment of Red Cross dry blood plasma is now being used by the Army in the North and South Carolina maneuvers, while units of the life-saving product are being shipped to insular possessions and foreign outposts where United States troops are being stationed.

An army of women, some thousand strong, moved upon Fort Myer Tuesday, mostly wives and daughters of officers of the Services, to say nothing of "their sisters, their cousins and their aunts." They came to see the Fashion Show put on by the Woman's Army and Navy League for the benefit of the Soldiers, Sailors and Marines' Club, an event for whose success Service women have worked hard. And a success it was—the audience crowding the Post Headquarters hall to overflowing—several hundred late comers being turned away.

The program read "Fashions in Defense of Loveliness," and went on to elucidate, "Now, more than at any other time, we believe it is every woman's duty to look her loveliest, for by sheer charm and beauty she can help allay some of the world's unhappiness. To help fulfill this duty, we take great pleasure in presenting these fashions in 'Defense of Loveliness.'" Not only was loveliness adorned with beautiful clothes displayed upon the platform, but the audience was smart and charming.

Miss Ilka Chase, well-known commentator, gave an amusing running story of entries. She was introduced by Mrs. Raymond Fowler, wife of Colonel Fowler and president of the club, and she was escorted to the platform by a guard of honor—a soldier, a sailor and a marine—in their respective uniforms.

Mrs. Leonard Townsend Gerow was chairman of the committee, assisted by Mrs. William Bryden, Mrs. Luther Sheldon, Mrs. Fowler and Mrs. McCook Knox.

The list of models, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Arthur MacArthur, and Mrs. E. Villaret included Mrs. Forrestal, wife of the Under Secretary of the Navy, Mrs. M. W. Arnold, Miss Jane Badger, Miss Alice Barry, Miss Elizabeth Goring Bliss, Mrs. Frank Bogart, Miss Bayly Bucher, Miss Betty Jane Campbell, Miss Virginia Campbell, Mrs. Eugene Carusi, Miss Theodora Chandler, Mrs. Richard Copeland, Miss Dita Davis, Miss Zoya Dickens, Mrs. Robert A. Long Ellis, Miss Helen Hoyle Graham, Mrs. Robert Hoyt, Mrs. Daniel Hunt, Miss Emmala James, Miss Jeannette Kutschko, Miss Clare Lewis, Mrs. Paul V. McNutt, Miss Jeanne Morris, Miss Eleanor Phillips, Miss Sally Sheffield, Miss Natalie Sutherland, Miss Barbara Vickery, Miss Dorothy Anne Wheatly and Mrs. Peter Belin, the former Mary Cootes, daughter of the late Colonel Cootes, USA. Mrs. Robert P. Patterson, wife of the Under Secretary of War, was chairman of the Ticket Committee, and got back to Washington from Garrison on the Hudson, where she and the Secretary had spent a week-end and stayed over to vote, just in time to change her frock and get to the party.

Treasurer of the ticket committee was Mrs. Rex H. Rhoades, her committee including Mrs. Courtney H. Hodges, Mrs. William P. Scooby, Mrs. J. L. Underhill, Mrs. C. W. McCarthy, Mrs. E. H. McDaniel and Mrs. Ralph Lovett.

Plans committee—Mrs. Ralph A. Bard, Chairman, Miss Acheson Dorsey and Miss Suzanne Slingluff.

Program committee—Mrs. A. A. Vandergrift, chairman, Miss Linell Bruce, Miss Ann Wilkinson, Miss Maise Howard and Miss Betty Jane Knighton.

SERVICE SOCIAL NEWS

MRS. JOHN WILLIS WALKER who, before her marriage 18 Oct. in Honolulu to Lieutenant Walker, CAC, USA, was Miss Elizabeth Lewis Dingley, daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Nelson Dingley, III, IGD, USA.

Assisting with arrangements—Mrs. Emory S. Adams, Mrs. Walter C. Baker, Miss Elizabeth Fairall, Mrs. William J. Flather, Jr., Mrs. C. K. Gailey, Mrs. C. C. Glover, Jr., Mrs. R. E. Ingersoll, Mrs. F. Loper Lowe, Mrs. John T. McCloy, Mrs. E. McGinley, Miss Gertrude V. D. Pringley, Mrs. Charles Sanderson, Mrs. Richard H. Wilmer and Mrs. W. B. Woodson.

After the show the crowd wended its way to the hospitable quarters of the Chief of Staff and Mrs. Marshall, walking along the ridge overlooking the panorama of Washington across the Potomac, and passing under the trees in all their glory of autumn coloring.

To be received by leading women of the services and to partake of tea was the incentive for the second part of the program, and though some were never able to get a cup of tea, so great was the crowd, they had at least the pleasure of greeting many old friends and acquaintances.

Mrs. Marshall having suffered a fall was regrettably missed in the receiving line, but Mrs. William Bryden, wife of the Deputy Chief of Staff, stood in her stead, with Mrs. Stimson, wife of the Secretary of War next her, and with Mrs. Knox, wife of the Secretary of the Navy next.

Mrs. Alexander A. Vandergrift, wife of the Assistant to the Commandant of the Marine Corps, came next in line and next her Mrs. Harold R. Stark, wife of Admiral Stark, Chief of Naval Operations, looking smart in a gown the same shade of red as was so often featured in the fashion show, just witnessed. With it she wore a trig little black felt sailor hat trimmed with ruching of the felt.

Assisting in greeting guests was Mrs. Claude Adams, who with Colonel Adams, former Aide to Gen. Marshall, came up from V.M.I. for the event, and were over night guests of General and Mrs. Marshall. Colonel Adams wore his dress uniform, and Mrs. Adams was pretty in a frock of lichen green with cap shaped hat, perky with flowers of velvet the same tone.

Before the show Mrs. Bryden was hostess at luncheon at her quarters at the post, entertaining Miss Ilka Chase and her hostess, Mrs. Virgil L. Peterson, wife of the Inspector General of the Army, Maj. Gen. Peterson; also Mrs. Leonard Gerow, Mrs. Robert Lovett, Mrs. John L. McCloy, Mrs. McCook Knox and her house guest, Miss Eleanor Koehler.

The ceremony took place in the candle-lighted Parke Memorial Chapel of St. Andrews Cathedral, the Rev. E. Tanner Brown, officiating at half after four, before an altar adorned with white ginger, ti leaves, gladioli and palms.

Lt. Colonel Dingley gave his daughter's hand in marriage and she wore a charming gown of white satin, a basque model with full skirt flowing into a long train, the whole enveloped in a long tulle veil fastened by a coronet of pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of white ginger, small white anthuriums and strands of plaike.

Her sister, Joyce, was her maid of honor. The Misses Mary Frances Munford and Joanne Smith were other bridesmaids.

Ushers were Lts. Allen Bennet, Belmont Evans, Iver Petersen, Irvin B. Birnbaum, George D. Carnahan and Capt. Arthur Baker, with Lt. James A. Roosa acting as best man.

The traditional arch of sabers was a feature of the recessional, and a reception was held at the Fort De Russy Pavilion Club, Fort Ruger orchestra furnishing the music.

Mary Baldwin College, Staunton, Va., was the alma mater of the bride; and Lieutenant Walker matriculated at West Point in '39. After honeymooning in Hawaii, the young couple will be at Fort Shafter, where he is on duty with the 64th coast artillery.

Pre nuptial parties included a dinner given by Col. and Mrs. Eugene B. Walker for their son, and his fiancée, also her parents, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Nelson Dingley III, of Schofield Barracks, and others of the wedding party. Colonel Walker is in command at Fort Kamehameha.

The engagement is announced of Miss Nellie Grant Cronan, great-granddaughter of President U. S. Grant, to Capt. Franklin Gibney Rothwell, USA, Mrs. William Pigott Cronan making the announcement of her daughter's betrothal from San Diego, Calif., the wedding, a small, informal ceremony, to take place in December.

Miss Cronan's father was the late Capt. William P. Cronan, USN. She attended the Holton Arms School in Washington after four years residence with her mother in Europe, where she attended various schools—one year studying with classes at the University at Grenoble. She is a member of the Junior League of San Diego.

Captain Rothwell is the son of Mr. Benita B. Rothwell of Bay Shore, L. I., and Mr. Clarence A. Rothwell of New York. He was graduated from West Point in '33 and at present is stationed at Fort Rosecrans.

The marriage of Miss Lucile Gray Lafferty, daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Frederick Reia Lafferty, and Lt. Jay Ray Spurrier, 12th Cavalry, Ft. Bliss, took place in the new chapel of the Cavalry Division at the post the evening of 28 Oct., with Chaplain Herman Kregel officiating.

Pink candles reflected the rose hue of myriad pink chrysanthemums and the bride was lovely in a gown of pink satin with veil of pink illusion, wearing a string of pearls, the gift of the bridegroom.

3 November 1941

Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Richard Donovan, have had as house-guests, Mrs. Rosemary Clarke and Mrs. Margaret Stoddard of Savannah, Ga., as special family members to join in the many parties and be with them for the wedding ceremony.

A very charming party was the cocktail gathering, at the San Antonio Country Club, on Monday evening last, when Mrs. Robert M. Campbell entertained for her brother-in-law and sister, Col. and Mrs. W. A. Austin. It was held on the west patio, and at the sunset hour was a setting long to be remembered.

Three affairs of interest to not only Ft. Sam Houston, but the other posts surrounding San Antonio, were: the graduation of The Advanced Schools of Brooks and Kelly Fields this week, Maj. Gen. Frank Lahm addressed them, also Maj. Gen. Claude Birkhead, former commanding general of the 38th Division. An interesting sight was Maj. James Doolittle and Col. W. B. Wright, Jr., pinning the "wings" on their sons, at the completion of the graduation ceremony.

The making of a moving picture, "Men In White" has caused much interest and excitement, as the "Shooting" of scenes both in and outside of the beautiful Station Hospital, has been going thru the week. Also the big hospital plane flown by a Randolph officer pilot, and the twin daughters of a colonel at our post, Alice and Jane Middleton, being filmed as nurses, has made this picture of the inner workings of our Army in National Defense, more interesting than usual. A review of the Second Division marching, as planes roar overhead, is another part of this film, taken here.

Mrs. John Perkins, entertained with a lovely luncheon in the Anacacho Room of the St. Anthony Hotel, when she honored Mrs. Arthur Pickens. Col. and Mrs. Pickens are leaving for their new station in California this week.

Col. and Mrs. J. L. Autrey, complimented new arrivals in the Signal group, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Frank E. Stoner, with a cocktail-supper in their quarters on Friday evening. Col. Curtis Dewar was co-host, for dinner at the club.

Mrs. Dallas Laizure is to be hostess chairman when the Officers' Wives Club meets

Society News

Mrs. W. B. Woodson was another luncheon hostess, entertaining at the Army-Navy Country Club.

Among those glimpsed at the tea following the show were Mrs. Emory Adams, Mrs. Walter C. Baker, Mrs. Thurman Arnold, Mrs. Henry Jewett, Mrs. Paul English, Mrs. Joseph Battey, Mrs. Robert M. Danford, Mrs. Edward Jadin, Mrs. Stuart Godfrey, Mrs. W. E. Pattison French, Mrs. Willis Prague Coleman, Mrs. William V. Carter, wife of Brig. Gen. Carter; Mrs. Carter senior, and Mrs. Woodberry, Mrs. Carter's mother—also Mrs. Sherman Miles, Mrs. Wilkinson, wife of Admiral Wilkinson and many more.

Visiting in Washington this week before returning to Columbus, Ohio, for the winter, were Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Charles C. Wolcott.

Their visit recalls that fifty years ago on 26 Aug. 1891, the first wedding took place at the new post at Ft. Sheridan, Ill. It took place in the quarters of the commanding officer, Col. and Mrs. R. E. A. Crofton. The bride was their eldest daughter Julia du Pont Crofton and the groom 2nd Lt. Charles Carroll Walcott, jr., son of General and Mrs. Charles C. Walcott of Columbus, Ohio. Miss Maude Crofton attended her sister as maid of honor and the best man was 2nd Lt. John J. Pershing, who had been Lieutenant Walcott's roommate at West Point. The house on the shores of beautiful Lake Michigan was decorated throughout in yellow in complement to the Cavalry, the branch of the service to which Lieutenant Walcott belonged.

Half a century later on Tuesday, 26 Aug. 1941 at The Manor in Asheville, N. C., where they spend their summers, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Walcott invited some hundred and fifty people to a cocktail party and tea to help them celebrate their golden wedding. Among their guests was Mrs. Howard K. Bagley, who flew from South Pasadena, Calif. She was a little girl living next door to General and Mrs. Walcott when they were stationed in Prescott, Ariz., and has been a cherished friend ever since. General Avery D. Andrews, another classmate of General Walcott's was also present. Mrs. Andrews had not sufficiently recovered from an illness to be present.

It was a great night at the Marine Barracks last night, the celebration no less than the 166th birthday of the Marine Corps.

The Spirit of 1776 gave the motif for murals and decorations, and attendants carrying out the theme wore colonial costumes. At the entrance a sentinel in the colonial uniform of the early days stood at attention, armed with an old-time musket corralled from Annapolis—a museum piece, definitely.

A great back-drop at one end of the hall depicted a map, high-lighting the historical events of the Marine Corps. At one side was a Marine in the uniform of colonial days—at the other extreme, the Marine of today, and in between scenes and men who have served in the intervening years.

The dance, the first of a series of four, was in reality a birthday party and four stalwart men bore aloft a huge birthday cake. With this they passed through a double line of officers. General Holcomb, Commandant of the Marine Corps, then passed through the line and with his sword cut the cake.

Standing before the huge fireplace with its decorations of old-fashioned powder horns, cutlasses and other antique weapons, the receiving line welcomed the guests—in it the General Commandant, the commanding officer of the barracks and Mrs. John Potts, Mrs. Rosecrans, wife of Major Rosecrans and Capt. Zeller, USMC.

A reception and dance in honor of the First Corps Area Commander, Maj. Gen. Francis B. Wilby and Mrs. Wilby was held last night, Friday evening, 7 November, at the Officers' Club, Watertown Arsenal, Watertown, Mass.

Those attending were officers on duty in and around the First Corps Area Headquarters.

Mrs. Victor Foster, widow of Colonel Foster, has taken an apartment at the Kennedy-Warren in Washington.

After Christmas, Mrs. Foster will leave for visits to North Carolina and Florida.

The Army and Navy Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will hold its regular monthly meeting Monday, 10 Nov., at the Army and Navy Club, Washington, D. C., preceded by a luncheon for members and guests. Miss Sophie Pearce Casey, a former Regent of the Chapter, will give an address, the subject being "From Cape to Cairo." Mrs. Hubert E. Paddock, Regent, will preside.

Col. and Mrs. Earl D. Weed, recent house guests of Lt. Col. Orsen E. Paxton, Inf., and Mrs. Paxton at 9229 Shore Road, Brooklyn, departed last week for Alexandria, La., Colonel Weed being stationed at Camp Beauregard as Chaplain of the Fifth Army Corps. During her stay in New York, Mrs. Weed was the guest of honor at several social functions.

Commissioned a second lieutenant of infantry in the regular Army 1 Sept. 1900, he attained the grade of captain in 1915, when he was assigned to the first businessmen's training camp at Plattsburg Barracks. It was while he was serving at Camp Syracuse with the Fourth Field Artillery in 1917 that he was promoted to the rank of lieutenant colonel and assigned to the 304th Field Artillery of the 77th Division. He became a colonel shortly after he assumed command of the 17th Field Artillery of the Second Division in France.

It was for his service with that division at Soissons that he received the Croix de Guerre and Legion of Honor from the French government.

He returned to this country in 1919 and served with the Ninth Corps Area Headquarters in San Francisco, the 21st Infantry in Hawaii, the Intelligence Division at the Presidio, the inspector general's office in Washington, D. ## The Defense Program

Being brought up to full strength as rapidly as personnel and equipment become available are the First and Second Marine Divisions and their attached First and Second Marine Aircraft Wings. These units are divided equally between the Atlantic and Pacific Fleets.

Junior Officers are being procured from the ranks of College graduates and trained by the Platoon Leaders classes and Candidates' Classes. Success of this program is indicated by the fact that existing vacancies in these classes fall far short of absorbing the applications. Three hundred and six Second Lieutenants in the Reserve were recently appointed and graduated from the Third Candidates' Class which began training in July of this year. These new officers were immediately assigned to duty with the Sixth Reserve Officer's class of The Marine Corps Schools at Quantico, Virginia. Now reporting for duty at Quantico is the Fourth Candidates' Class, made up of approximately four hundred college graduates.

Maj. Gen. Francis B. Wilby, Commanding First Corps Area, Army Base, Boston, Mass., has announced the arrival of Col. Francis A. Donat, who will succeed as Chief of Staff, Col. Benjamin F. Miller, when the latter goes on retirement leave in March, 1942.

Line Selection Board

The President this week approved the recommendations of the Line Selection Board which selected 463 lieutenants for promotion to lieutenant commander. The selection board, which convened 13 October, was composed of the following officers, all captains, U. S. Navy: Williams C. Wickham, president; Ernest L. Gunther, Lyal A. Davidson, James A. Logan, Charles P. Mason, Chapman C. Todd, Carl H. Jones, Scott Umsted, and Powell McC. Rhea. Lt. Comdr. Burton Davis, USN, was recorder.

In the selection of the 463 lieutenants for promotion, it is noted that 53 of the officers selected were passed over by a previous board. Of these 53 officers, 15 were selected as best fitted, while the remaining 38 were selected as fitted.

The previous board to recommend lieutenants for promotion to lieutenant commander ended its consideration with No. 3192 on the promotion list, according to the 1 July 1941 Navy Register. The present board began its selection with the next name on the promotion list, No. 3193. The last name considered was No. 3300. The board actually considered 467 names in the selection of 410 officers for promotion. The selection percentage was slightly less than 88.

Sports writers and football fans throughout the country will focus their attention today on games at Cambridge, Mass., and at Baltimore, Md., which will see Army play Harvard and Navy meet Notre Dame. For it will be from the results of these games, that a first comparison of the Army and Navy teams will be made. Each of the Service teams will meet today a team which played a scoreless tie with the other Service eleven. Thus, the stage has been set for two important football games.

At Cambridge, the Army eleven, which last Saturday battled a heavier and favored Notre Dame team to a scoreless tie, will meet in Harvard a team which played Navy to a 0-0 tie two weeks ago. Simultaneously, the Navy eleven, which last week won over a previously undefeated Penn team, 13-6, will be playing the mighty Irish from South Bend, Ind.

The interest in these games has been evidenced. Tickets for either the Army or Navy game have long since been exhausted. Capacity crowds are assured. Recognizing the importance of the games in the national gridiron picture, the National Broadcasting Company announced this week that the Army-Harvard game will be carried over the Red network, while the Navy-Notre Dame game will be aired over the facilities of the Blue network.

Army Ties Irish

Playing before a capacity crowd of 76,000 last week, the Army eleven, outweighed 15 pounds to a man in the line, and the under dogs in pre-game betting, slithered and fought Notre Dame to a 0-0 tie. The game, which was played in a steady downpour, saw neither team able to launch a sustained drive. At no time during the wet afternoon could either Army or Notre Dame get within the opponent's 15 yard line. Army's furthest progress was to Notre Dame's 24, while the Irish on one occasion moved to the West Pointers' 16 before relinquishing possession of the ball.

Navy Beats Penn

Not since 1935 had a Navy football team defeated Penn—that is not until Maj. "Swede" Larson's forces came along last week and played the Penn eleven right off its cleated feet. The 13-6 score does little to explain the complete superiority of the Middles, who ran up a total of 14 first downs as compared to Penn's 6, and who gained 230 yards by rushing as compared to Penn's 108. Analysis of the play reveals that Navy was constantly hammering at Penn's goal line. Eight times during the game the Navy team moved to within Penn's 15 yard line.

Just as was the case in the Army-Notre Dame game, so did Navy play Penn in a stadium which resembled a quagmire. Ball handling was treacherous, and ace backs of both teams were content to hit the line in straight plays, saving all fancy reverses and passing for other games.

Canal Zone—The popular hard-playing Nicaraguan Baseball Club, which represents Nicaragua in the Central American League, recently visited Albrook Field for a three game series with the Army nine, which was copied by the Albrook Field team. The visitors were quartered at Albrook Field, and were conducted on many good-will sightseeing trips. Great asset to the games was Tech. Sgt. Julian D. Martinez, whose ability to interpret messages between the two teams made him even more appreciated for his umpring.

The 2nd Field Artillery basketball team has been awarded the Department Commanders Trophy for winning the Panama basketball championship. The muleskinners took the trophy away from the France Field cagers.

Ft. Wadsworth, N. Y.—Basketball practice under coach Lt. J. L. Schilling began here this week.

Camp Roberts, Calif.—The new $92,000 sports arena is rapidly nearing completion here.

Kessler Field, Miss.—A prize is being given twice monthly here to the soldier who catches the largest garfish. Corp. Albert T. Niccolai, who won the October contest for the greatest amount of weight caught during one month, brought in a 120-pound garfish which measured 6 feet and 6 inches.

Ft. Lewis, Wash.—Whether in the realm of sports or not, it has been announced here that the nursery will soon be completed. Yes, the soldiers will have flowers. "Sweet's to the sweet," etc.

Reserve Officer Appointments

The War Department, in a recent circular letter, states that appointments in all sections of the Officers' Reserve Corps are suspended with the following exceptions:

Officers in the Chaplains' Reserve and Medical Department Reserve may be appointed in the Officers' Reserve Corps, as may recent graduates of the Military and Naval Academies, the CMTC, and ROTC. Also excepted under the regulations are recent graduates of an Air Corps Training Center or of special courses of training established under the supervision of the Chief of Air Corps. In the last two exceptions, candidates for commission in the Officers' Reserve Corps must have successfully passed the educational examination prescribed by the Chief of the Air Corps for appointment as aviation cadet.

It was explained further that recent graduates of schools established for the training of officer candidates may also receive commissions in the Officers' Reserve Corps.

Still other exceptions are made to those who enrolled in the Army Extension courses prior to 20 Dec. 1939, and whose enrollments have not been cancelled; and to those whose enrollments in the Army Extension courses, or whose examinations, were authorized prior to 4 March 1941, required for commission in those sections of the Officers' Reserve Corps where appointments have not been suspended and whose enrollments have not since been cancelled.

Warrant Officers and enlisted men of the Regular Army and enlisted men of the Regular Army Reserve who were enrolled for the Army Extension Courses before an AG letter of 3 April, 1941, was received at Corps Area or Department Headquarters are likewise excepted.

FINANCE

Financial Digest

Pushing toward a solution is the question of whether the United States is to have a closed shop or a defense program. An important step in this direction will result from the decision of the National Defense Mediation Board on the issue raised by John L. Lewis in connection with the so-called captive mines owned by the Steel Companies. As a matter of fact, the miners in these mines are 95 per cent unionized, and the decision to be made would affect apparently only the small percentage remaining. But if the Lewis point of view should be sustained, a precedent would be established which would affect industry generally. Certainly this would be true of the steel industry, which could hardly refuse to grant to all its branches what it had given to one. The inclination of the Mediation Board has been sympathetic toward the closed shop and the President himself demonstrated a like attitude by seizing the Kearney plant of the Federal Shipbuilding & Drydock Company, after that company declined to accept the system. However, there are many employers who will not agree to the closed shop, and it is easy to predict, consequently, that approval of the Lewis demand would increase, rather than diminish, the number of strikes. Conversely, rejection of the demand would cause more strikes. It is not known what the Board will do, but it should uphold Lewis. It is the view of many employers and labor leaders that coupled with the decision should be an undertaking by the CIO and AFL not to approve any strike directing toward furtherance of the system beyond the mines.

Labor should take cognizance of the rising public and Congressional feeling about this matter of strikes. More than 50 bills have been introduced in both Houses, the purpose of which is to curb Organized Labor, and bitter epithets have come from the lips of numerous Senators and Representatives regarding the arbitrary conduct of Union Leaders. The President intends that the gains of labor shall not be lost, but he realizes the importance of providing the munitions for our Army and Navy and for the service of the countries we are supplying. This view he expressed emphatically in his speech on Thursday before the International Labor Organization. There are advisers close to the President who believe the patience he has displayed, particularly in the matter of Lewis' demands, is wearing thin, and that the time is not far distant when he will crack down, especially upon jurisdictional strikes.

Of importance in connection with our war effort is the wage demand of the Railroad Unions. The President's Emergency Fact Finding Board proposed advances which would total $270 millions, as against the $900 million figure estimated by the Unions. A vacation of one week annually also was proposed by the Board. The Union leaders hold the Board's decision should not be accepted, and have called a conference in Chicago to determine whether to strike or not. The carriers say they cannot absorb the increase proposed by the Board, and must have a hike in freight and passenger rates, which the Board estimates would average about 5 per cent.

The advance in wages and rail rates would naturally affect the nation's price structure. This fact exposes more glaringly the inadequacy of the Price Control bill reported by the House Banking & Currency Committee. That bill excludes wages as a factor in cost, and, for the benefit of the farmers, contains a formula for "controlling" farm prices, which practically prevents the imposition of any ceilings below the highest levels in history. It is understood the President is not satisfied with the measure, and that changes will be made on the floor of the House and in the Senate.

Specialists' Chevrons

Submarine Warfare

The sinking of the destroyer Reuben James and the damage to the oil tanker Salinas, following closely upon the heavy damage to the new destroyer Kearny, with an attendant loss of life of over one hundred trained officers and men, well to the south and west of Iceland by German U-boats, is no ordinary challenge to United States sea power. These U-boats are operating hundreds of miles from their bases apparently without any support from surface vessels or aircraft. Their offensive, if not checked, will have an important bearing on the quantity of supplies which will reach the far flung battle front now extending from the Baltic to the Black sea as well as upon the prestige of the United States in other quarters of the globe.

The strategical consequences of these Nazi submarine successes have been somewhat dimmed by the heroic efforts of the officers and crew of the disabled Kearny in saving their ship and the lives of those injured. The story of the torpedoing, the clearing away of the wreckage, the repairs to the ship, the return to the port and finally, the arrival of medical aid by plane for the injured is a thrilling one. It is one which will be an inspiration and an example to the entire personnel of the United States Navy in its preparations for and fighting the battles of the future.

The strategical lesson is simple—it is that the offensive potentialities of the Nazi submarines in the Iceland-Greenland theatre exceeds the defensive measures which have been taken to protect the convoys passing through that theatre.

A very definite move to improve this situation was the transfer of the Coast Guard to the Navy, effected by the President in an executive order announced on 3 Nov. The Coast Guard consists of several hundred vessels of varying sizes and a string of bases on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. Many of its personnel have had experience in the North Atlantic during the winter months in maintaining the ice patrol. In addition to the large number of small surface vessels, it has an air component and an extensive communication system. In all, it is a valuable reinforcement to the Navy in the present emergency.

Many of the Coast Guard vessels are sufficiently sea-worthy to be used as escorts for the ocean going convoys. The greater the number available for such purpose, the more hazardous will it become for the Nazi submarines to approach a convoy after dark and fire her torpedoes while acting on the surface, or partially submerged under which conditions the submarine is exceedingly vulnerable to gun fire and bombs, also, to ramming. The fact that the destroyers Kearny and Reuben James and the oil tanker Salinas were torpedoed at night certainly indicates a very high degree of efficiency on the part of the submarines in reaching firing positions from which they could launch their torpedoes, either submerged or on the surface.

The submarines may have had to resort to night operations because of the efficiency of the United States Navy's long range patrol boats. These boats must be making a continuous search over the waters through which the convoys, especially the slow ones of six to ten knots, must pass. The more extensive these patrols become, the more limited will the submarine operations be during the day. If the submarines continue to have success in their night operations, the defending vessels, that is, the escorts and the armed units of the convoy may begin the use of large flares to remove the advantage which darkness now affords the low lying hulls of the submarines.

But whatever defensive measures are undertaken, the success of the German submarines in the recent engagements with regular men-of-war of the United States Navy means that such measures must be all comprehensive. They must provide for underwater search and offense and extensive patrols on the surface and in the air with improved methods of launching depth charges and bombs.

Press despatches say that the Navy is starting to build a new weapon for the Battle of the Atlantic. It was stated that fifty high-speed escort vessels for Great Britain would be turned out at the rate of about two a month when construction reaches full stride next year. Their design is a secret and it is not known whether they are a duplication of vessels now building for the United States Navy.

The submarine demonstrated its effectiveness during the World War and it is high time that an efficient anti-submarine vessel be designed and built. Such a vessel should be able to withstand several torpedo hits; it should have the most efficient sound detecting apparatus; it should have a dual purpose battery; it should have a greatly improved depth charge battery; and, finally, it should carry a specially designed aircraft for launching depth charges and to assist in locating submarines. It is believed that such military characteristics cannot be incorporated in such vessels as the most modern British escort-type of about 1,200 tons, capable of 20 knots speed.

Flag Raising At St. Lucia Base

Port of Spain, A. P. O. No. 803, Trinidad—A ceremonial flag raising was held Monday, 27th October at the St. Lucia Army Base. This marked the first raising of the U. S. Flag at the new base at Vieux Fort on the southern tip of St. Lucia.

The Commander of the Trinidad Sector, Brig. Gen. Ralph Talbot, Jr., USA, spoke to the assembled guests upon the importance of the occasion, stressing the coordinated relationship that exists between the two democratic peoples.

Representing His Majesty the King was Administrator Arthur Alban Wright, C. M. G., of St. Lucia who came down from Port Castries for the occasion. Mr. Wright spoke from the British standpoint, stressing the many friendships that were being formed as the two Democracies went forward on their common mission.

Others attending the Dedication were: Major Smith of the U. S. Marine Corps and Lieutenant Smith, both representing the U. S. Navy Base at Gros Islet; Commander Milburn of the British Navy and Major Lambert, Commissioner of the St. Lucia Police; Colonel Ring, Commanding the St. Lucia Base acted as master of ceremonies and introduced the various speakers. Following the ceremonies the official guests repaired to the officers' club where they had lunch.

After attending the Dedication Ceremony at St. Lucia, General Ralph Talbot, Jr., accompanied by his Staff flew to Barbados. There he called on the new Governor, Sir Henry Grattan Bushe, K. C. M. G., C. B., C. M. G. During the second day a visit was paid to the Colonial Secretary, Major W. H. Flinn, C. M. G., O. B. E., Acting Governor of Barbados, where problems of Inter-West Indies Defense were discussed.

During the return journey from Barbados an aerial visit was paid to Tobago and the party reached Trinidad at 1:00 P.M. after a two hour journey.

MERCHANT MARINE

Merchant Marine

The Maritime Commission has announced that a contract calling for the construction of nine small cargo vessels known as "coasters" at a total cost of $8,550,000 has been awarded the Pacific Bridge Co., San Francisco, Calif. With the award of this contract, the Maritime Commission brings to 36 the number of "coasters" already under construction or soon to be begun.

A "coaster" is a small freight ship of approximately 2,800 deadweight tons. It is 258 feet, 9 inches long, with a beam of 42 feet, 1 inch and it has a draft of 17 feet, 11 inches. Deliveries from the Pacific Bridge Co. are scheduled to begin on 7 July, 1942, and extend until 4 March 1943.

Allocation of Ships

Three Liberty Ships, the first of 312 Emergency cargo vessels the Maritime Commission has under construction, have been allocated to American steamship operators for use over national defense trade routes. The SS Star of Oregon is scheduled for delivery on 18 Nov.; and the SS Meriwether Lewis on 25 Nov.; and the SS John C. Fremont, on 24 Nov.

These Liberty Ships will go into service six months after their construction was begun, a period of construction which compares favorably with the 10 to 12 months it required to construct similar vessels during the last war.

Names of 39 more patriots, military and naval heroes, statesmen and other famous Americans have been assigned to ships of the Liberty Fleet, according to a Maritime Commission announcement this week.

Future Liberty Ships are to be named after John Marshall, Francis Scott Key, Roger B. Taney, Richard Henry Lee, John Randolph, George Calvert, Christopher Newport, Albert Gallatin, Paul Revere, Oliver Hazard Perry, Daniel Boone, Elbridge Gerry, Robert Morris, Rufus King, Samuel Adams, Nathan Hale, Zebulon Pike, Henry Knox, Sam Houston, Davy Crockett, Matthew Maury, Winfield Scott, James Oglethorpe, Charles C. ## 101 Lost on USS Reuben James

The Navy Department on 4 Nov. announced the hope of finding the seven officers and 92 enlisted men in the crew of the USS Reuben James, sunk by torpedo on the night of 30-31 Oct. 1941, has been abandoned.

Intensive search has been made in the area where the ship was sunk. The searching vessels found one man's body in the water and rescued 45 other enlisted men, one of whom died two days after being rescued. The survivors consist of eight men injured and 36 men uninjured.

From the reports received in the attack on the USS Reuben James it was made during complete darkness. The destroyer was probably struck on the port side amidships with the result that the vessel was broken in two. The forward part sank immediately and the after section within a few minutes afterwards.

From the terrific force of the explosion, it is a possibility that the magazine exploded. It is a probability that the majority of the casualties occurred in the forward section, although two of the survivors were from that part of the ship.

It is believed that all living survivors were rescued.

The USS Reuben James was struck in approximately the same relative position of the hull, fore and aft, as the USS Kearny. The improvement in design of the new type destroyer over the old World War type can be compared with the results now known.

Those on the ship's roster who have been given up as lost are:

Pursuant to the merger of the former League of Women with the new organization, the name of the Washington, D. C., unit was changed to the Coast Guard Welfare. At same time it was announced that monthly meetings will be held at Coast Guard Headquarters.

The unit voted also to continue the same officers until the end of the fiscal year, 30 June, 1942. A report of the Red Cross Committee explains that the organization spent 292 hours of surgical dressings, 79 hours of motor corps work, 49 Gray Ladies, 501 knitting, and 30 sewing.

Decision on R.A.R. $10 Bonus

The Comptroller General has ruled that Regular Army Reservists are not eligible for the $10 monthly bonus until they have served at least 12 months under Public Resolution No. 96, which was approved 27 Aug. 1940. Thus, by this decision, hopes of Regular Army Reservists that they would receive credit for previous service, no matter when it may have occurred, have been frustrated.
